FALL CASE MAY REVEAL NAVAL DEFENSE MOVE

Attorneys Try to Prove That Oil Lease Was Patriotic Impulse

INVOLVES JAP PROBLEM
Secretary Wilbur's Order Made to Guard Secrets of Navy, Belief

Washington—The Fall-Doheny trial may develop international complications. For in order to support the theory that the Doheny oil interests had entered into the Pearl Harbor proposition to supply oil at the navy's base in Hawaii, as a patriotic act, the defense is trying to prove that the navy department was urgently behind the deal as a matter of national defense.

Whatever the emergency was a few years ago the truth is relations between Japan and the United States today are friendly and it would not be "compatible with the public interest" for the navy to disclose even its theoretical war plans of recent years.

MIGHT INFLAME JAPAN

The mere discussion of these plans is opposed by the diplomatic branch of the American government as calculated to inflame public opinion in Japan and stimulate the activities of Japanese militarists and jingos.

But Messrs. Doheny and Fall are on trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government. If either motive behind one or the other is question was a patriotic one they are entitled to the presentation of every bit of evidence which may back up their theory before the jury. So it is a question of whether an individual's reputation and standing before the law is more important in the eyes of the court than a governmental policy affecting a foreign nation.

WILBUR'S STAND

Secretary Wilbur of the navy department, has ordered his subordinates not to disclose what they may have learned confidentially while in the naval service. This is taken to mean that he does not wish discussion of the navy's activity in the national emergency situation to be met by an executive session. It may be that the court will decide to receive the testimony behind closed doors. Such a step is unusual but thoroughly legal. The embarrassment arises from the fact that the defense cannot discuss in open court latter the things which may be put into record in executive session.

Counsel for Mr. Doheny has already put into the record significant statement that the navy regarded the situation as alarming at the time the naval oil leases were being made and already a good deal of this had been called to Japan and has been made the basis of discussion there.

With congress in session it is not at all improbable that the whole episode may become the subject of inquiry by the foreign relations committee for up to now there has been no indication that congress knew of the emergency referred to in the Doheny trial.

MORSE JURY FREES TWO; DEADLOCKED ON FOUR

Chicago—(P)—The Morse mail fraud trial, which started on Oct. 4, is at a standstill, with two of the six defendants acquitted. The jury was so deadlocked regarding the others that it was discharged Sunday, after deliberating 35 hours.

All were charged with misusing the mails in selling steamship stocks. George A. Burditt and Henry E. Boughton were acquitted, but agreement could not be reached on Benjamin W. Erwin A. and Harry F. Morse, sons of Charles W. Morse, shipbuilder, who was not brought to trial because of illness, and on Russell W. Much. The federal authorities have not indicated whether there will be another trial.

HORSESHOE UNLUCKY FOR MILWAUKEE MAN

WOLF DAM IS 'CRIME' SAYS WALTON HEAD

President Brown Protests Destruction of Natural Scenic Beauty of State

Milwaukee—(P)—Granting of permission by the Federal Power commission to water power companies to dam up the Wolf river in Wisconsin and Cumberland Falls in Kentucky, is called "a crime more than ordinarily odious" by Sherman Brown, president of the Wisconsin division of the Isaak Walton League in letters sent to the commission.

"Wisconsin Waltonians, numbering 15,000 men and women, protest the rape of Cumberland Falls by a power corporation," declared Mr. Brown. "To them, it comes as a shock to learn that a federal permit may bolt out the supreme scenic asset of a sovereign state."

"Supreme court decisions without number have defined federal jurisdiction over American waters as valid only insofar as it affects navigation. A sovereign people granted that to the constitution. Beyond this the waters of a state belong to the people of that state not by any commonwealth as 'vested trustee' cede away their inherent rights. Expediency seems to ignore this fundamental fact."

PRESERVE GRANDEUR

"As a mere matter of values: Would it not be more desirable to preserve the natural grandeur of Cumberland Falls and other peerless areas of beauty in America, for the people and posterity, than to crucify them for corporate dividends?" In his second letter, Mr. Brown says: "Since writing a protest against the destruction of Cumberland Falls in Kentucky it is reported in the press that your commission has granted to a water power corporation, a permit to dam the Wolf river at a point just below the Menominee Indian reservation. I have been informed that it is the intention of the power company to dam up the waters of the Wolf and create a large reservoir which will destroy the many beautiful falls, rapids and virgin forests, besides drowning out the lovely Indian village of Keshena."

"I have also been informed that permission of the Indians has not been secured for this destruction of their waters, lands and homes. In the name of the Wisconsin division of the Isaak Walton League of America I now protest the destruction of this rare scenic spot of the Wisconsin. It would appear that your department is bent upon giving away to private exploitation, the people's waters, without reserve or apparent compunction."

URGES FARMERS FIGHT FOR FEDERAL RELIEF

Chicago—(P)—American agriculture was summoned Monday to press with constant aggressiveness toward federal farm aid legislation by Sam H. Thompson, during the opening of the eighth annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation. To the thousands of farmers gathered for the greatest agrarian session of the year, he gave that keynote, but he tempered it with counsel of deliberate decision on measures to meet their problems.

GERMANY ASKS CESSATION OF ALLIES RULE

Will Make Determined Effort to Obtain Recall of Troops from Country

Geneva—(P)—Germany will make a determined effort before her delegates leave Geneva to secure a definite agreement upon an early date for cessation of the inter-allied military control.

This declaration was made to the Associated Press Monday by a member of the German delegation at the end of the first meeting of the forty-third session of the league of nations council. Bitterness among the German people over the inter-allied control is steadily growing, the spokesman continued, and the question must be reckoned with as even more important than that of reducing the army of Occupation in the Rhineland.

INSISTS ON MODIFICATION

Moreover, Germany will insist upon modification of the project to invest the league with the right to investigate German armaments which it is expected will be substituted for the inter-allied control.

The council convened at 11:45 Monday morning under the chairmanship of Foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany, did not insist as was expected upon immediate discussion of the plan for investigation of German armaments by the league.

He thus created the impression that he hopes to secure concessions in the private conversations, which will be pursued outside the council. Failing to get what he wants there he undoubtedly will push the matter publicly in the council.

ORDER PROBE OF CRASH OF NORTHSHORE, LOCAL

Chicago—(P)—P. N. Moynihan, acting chairman of the Illinois Commerce commission Sunday night ordered an investigation of the collision Saturday night near Winthrop Harbor of a limited train of the Chicago, Northshore and Milwaukee Electric road and a one-car local in which several persons were hurt. The investigation was ordered after reports were made that wooden coaches were being operated between steel coaches in violation of a commerce commission rule.

Milwaukee—(P)—Ralph Duncan, 37, Racine, died Sunday in a Waukegan hospital as the result of injuries received Saturday in a collision of North Shore trains near Winthrop Harbor, Ill. Surgeons amputated both legs in an effort to save his life.

East Digging Way Out Of Heaviest Storm In Years

New York—(P)—Eastern states, from Maine to West Virginia, were digging out Monday from one of the heaviest early season snow falls on record, which caused half a dozen deaths and seriously impeded traffic.

The snow was seven to fifteen inches deep in the more northerly portions of the blanketed area. It was the heaviest for the season in 40 years here.

There were three deaths in Buffalo. More than 100 boats were caught in the ice on the Erie and Champlain divisions of the barge canal.

Ten thousand men were working in 12 hours shifts for the street cleaning department of New York city Monday to prevent a general tie-up of traffic. Nearly 400 persons were given lodging at the municipal lodging house Sunday night. The Salvation Army took care of 604 men, with about 100 more crowded into the lobby of its Bowers hotel, and gave shelter to 200 women.

The coldest weather was at Northfield, Vt., 12 below zero. There was one death in Boston and one in Springfield, Mass. In New Jersey there was one death.

Milwaukee—(P)—The coldest weather of the season and the lowest temperature reading in the United States followed the heavy snowfall of Saturday and Sunday in Wisconsin.

CHILE, PERU MAY END OLD DISPUTE

Chile Ready to Consider Proposal to Cede Tacna and Arica to Bolivia

Washington, D. C.—(P)—The long bitter dispute between Chile and Peru over possession of the provinces of Tacna and Arica passed Monday into the most hopeful stage that has characterized it since the effort to solve the problem through a plebiscite under President Coolidge's arbitral award encountered insuperable difficulties some time ago.

This definite turn in the situation came with the announcement that Chile "giving a new and eloquent demonstration of its aims of peace and cordiality" was ready to "consider, in principle," the recent proposal by Secretary Kellogg that the provinces be perpetually demilitarized and ceded by both claimants to their landlocked neighbor, Bolivia.

Bolivia, which Secretary Kellogg announced had not been consulted before the cession proposal was advanced, also has consented to the arrangement.

YEGGS LOOT ST. PAUL STORE OF OVER $50,000

St. Paul—(P)—More than $50,000 was obtained by three men who blew three safes in Schunemann and Mannheim's department store here Saturday night. The robbers worked for four hours in the store guarding two watchmen and forcing one of them to make his regular hourly rounds to "pull bells."

The loot included $35,000 in cash, $15,000 in stocks and bonds, of which about $5,000 is negotiable, and several pieces of jewelry which had been stored in the safe. The three men gained access to the store in the downtown district less than two blocks from police headquarters, shortly after 8 o'clock. They worked so quietly and methodically they failed to attract attention of hundreds of theatre goers on the streets.

EIGHT PERSONS ARE ROUTED BY FLAMES

Milwaukee—(P)—Eight persons were forced to seek sleeping accommodations elsewhere Monday when a fire damaged a duplex flat doing damage estimated at $3,000. Fire was caused by an overheated furnace.

Warmer Weather Aid To Ice-Bound Lake Boats

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.—(P)—Moderating temperatures Monday lent a helping hand to the ice-breakers and car ferries attempting to dislodge the ice jam which has choked the outlets of the St. Mary's river and imprisoned 123 lake freight steamships.

A steady rise in temperature made some inroads into the ice. Three or four days of moderate weather, steamboat officials said, might assist the breakers enough to permit clearance of the channel.

Colder weather at this time, however might force abandonment of attempts to move the ships this winter. In that event they would suffer severe losses. In addition to the possible loss of cargoes, steam would have to be maintained and at least a half crew kept aboard throughout the period of imprisonment.

CANCEL FIRE INSURANCE ON BADGER FARMS

Farmers Around Ashland Find Selves Without Protection Monday

Ashland—(P)—Cancellation of fire insurance on farms by nearly every insurance company has created a critical situation in northern Wisconsin. Many farmers unable to reach Ashland because of the roads, find themselves without insurance as the result of another company having taken advantage of its right to cancel policies on five days notice. Insurance men and the county agricultural agent were besieged here Saturday and Monday by farmers bearing the cancellation notices. Only one or two old line companies are still handling farm fire insurance, besides the mutuals. Insurance men who have returned from Madison conferences, say the old line companies claim a loss of over two dollars for every dollar received in premiums for this insurance and are pulling out, one after the other.

Banks and others holding mortgages have threatened to foreclose unless farms are insured. Decrease in farm values has left the insurance on buildings higher than the whole present value of the farms in many cases. It is said that fire losses have been heavy.

Pressure is being brought by the Federal Land bank of St. Paul and others holding farm mortgages to force the state insurance committee to grant an increase in rates, and the matter will come to a head Monday or Tuesday, it is stated upon good authority here.

GANGSTERS MURDER OKLAHOMA OFFICER

Struggle in Rooms Shows Luther Bishop Died Fighting, Although Unarmed

Oklahoma City, Okla.—(P)—Gangsters of the modern crime school have killed Luther Bishop, one of Oklahoma's "tough" gun officers, trained in the days when quick shooting often played a major part in law enforcement. Bishop was shot to death in his bedroom here shortly before dawn Sunday. He died fighting, but unarmed, with indications that he had grappled with a gunman who fired several times at short range.

For the last several years Bishop had been an operative of the state bureau of identification. He also assisted the government in the investigation of the Osage County "Reign of terror," in which nearly a score of persons were slain four years ago. Bishop's body was found near an electric light switch, which he had attempted to reach. An open window indicated the slayer had crawled over a porch roof and escaped in an automobile which, neighbors said, sped from a point near the house shortly after the shooting. His two pistols, always kept near his bed, were missing.

FREE FIVE SUNDAY

After freeing five of the vessels in the upper outlet Sunday, the Sainte Marie giant ferry Monday transferred operations to the lower outlet. The freed, broken loose by the maneuvering of the tugs and lighters, has wedged at the lower outlet and slid into a mountainous formation. If the Sainte Marie is successful in carving a lane through this formation, it is planned to keep lighters moving through the path to prevent new freezing while tugs attempt to pull boats free.

There are 66 freighters imprisoned in the lower channel and 57 strung out along the upper reaches of the river.

URGED FATHER OF LOVER TO PERSUADE SON

Erdman's Father Testifies in Inquest; Stranger Seen With Youth

Prairie du Chien—(P)—Clara Dorothy Olson, farmer's daughter found slain and buried last week on a hillside 15 miles from her home, bequeathed Albert Olson, father of her lover Erdman, last August, to make the boy marry her before she became a mother. As the first witness Monday in a coroner's inquest over the girl's body, Albert Olson told District Attorney G. S. Earll of a letter written to him by the girl in the middle of August, telling him of her condition. Erdman, missing since Sept. 27, a short time after the girl vanished is charged with Clara's murder.

When the father got the letter, he testified he showed it to his son who "seemed surprised." Then he ordered the boy to go to the home of Christ Olson, father of Clara and bring the girl back with him. He planned to submit her to a medical examination, he said.

The girl refused to leave her home. Three weeks later when she disappeared the father of her sweetheart assumed she had gone to a hospital, he declared. Autopsies determined Saturday that she was beaten to death on the hill where she was buried, probably about the time she disappeared.

MYSTERIOUS STRANGER

A mysterious stranger entered the Olson murder case Monday. On the eve of the inquest, District Attorney Earll obtained statements indicating the participation of an unknown individual in the events of the night of Sept. 27 when the girl disappeared.

Merle Murray, a farmer of Mo. r. Sterling, told the district attorney that on that evening he had met Erdman Olson, sought as the girl's slayer at a Seneca dance, and had taken a drink with him and a stranger at 11:30, after which the youth and his companion departed together.

The prosecutor also was informed that Park Morris, proprietor of the Mount Sterling hotel, who was at a dance, saw Erdman and the stranger drive away in Erdman's car in the direction of Clara's residence, which she left at midnight.

FARM FIRE PRESENT

Farm folk 50 miles around trekked through a blizzard Monday to this little city of 3,500, the setting for the most dramatic action Crawford-co has known since the first settlement, a fur trading post, was established here in the Revolutionary days. Their objective was the courthouse, scene of the inquest for the girl, whose head was crushed, probably by a hammer or a blunt side of an axe.

In addition to the information obtained from Murray and Morris, District Attorney Earll has a closely guarded blood-stained letter written to Clara by Erdman the day she disappeared and which may throw considerable light on several mysterious phases of the case. The letter was taken from the girl's clothing by autopsy men Saturday revealed how she came to her death.

THREE KILLED IN CRASH WITH TRAIN

Camp Douglas Men Returning from New Lisbon When Locomotive Hits Coupe

New Lisbon—(P)—Three men were killed, two instantly, when a north-bound Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul passenger train struck the coupe in which they were riding at Marshall's Crossing, a few miles west of here, at 12:35 Monday morning.

The men are: Fred Olson, stock buyer, John Olson and Tommy Walker, all of Camp Douglas. Fred Olson and his cousin, John Olson, were killed instantly while Walter lived until after he was taken to the New Lisbon station. The body of Fred Olson was mutilated almost beyond recognition.

The men were returning in a small car from a visit to a motion picture theatre at New Lisbon and it is believed that closed curtains on the car and frost on the windshield prevented them from seeing the approaching train. The car was hopelessly wrecked in the smash, the locomotive striking it just behind the drivers seat. The two Olsons were in the front seat and Walker in the rear.

UPPER COURT BACKS TEAPOT DOME RULING

Sinclair and Fall Must Stand Trial for Conspiracy, Supreme Court Says

Washington, D. C.—(P)—The government's oil counsel won another point in their long legal battle Monday when the supreme court refused to grant Harry F. Sinclair and Albert B. Fall any relief from the criminal conspiracy proceedings pending against them.

These proceedings are somewhat similar to the case against Fall and Edward L. Doheny, now on trial here except that in the Sinclair case the lease involved is that by which the Sinclair interest took over Teapot Dome.

After criminal conspiracy indictments against Fall and Sinclair had been returned in the local courts, they attacked the proceedings on the ground that an employee of the department of justice had been present in the jury room. The trial court sustained the indictments as did the court of appeals. The court of appeals was upheld Monday by the supreme court.

Owen J. Roberts of the government oil counsel said he would ask for trial of Sinclair and Fall before Jan. 15.

DISSECT NAVAL POLICY

Navy testimony in defense of the oil leasing policy of 1922 was put on the dissecting table Monday by Government counsel in the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial.

The witness chair was occupied by Rear Admiral J. K. Robinson, who spoke for the Navy department in the negotiations which resulted in award of several oil contracts to Edward L. Doheny while Albert B. Fall was secretary of the interior. Owen J. Roberts, of government counsel conducted a cross-examination that brought the admiral under a pelted storm of questions about many vital features of his previous testimonies.

CONCEDES MISTAKE

The witness conceded that he had made a mistake in saying in the Los Angeles civil trial that he had not mentioned the matter to Doheny during talks they had in New York. He also permitted Roberts to correct from the official record a statement he had made about what took place at a leasing conference at the navy department.

Recalling Doheny's statement before the senate oil committee that he expected to make $100,000 out of the Elk Hills contract, Roberts pressed the admiral to estimate the value of the whole Elk Hills reserve. The witness replied that he valued the entire tract at about a half million.

Roberts' attack was growing more and more fiery and the admiral's response more and more emphatic. Once he shouted at his interrogator: "I never make any attempt to force one to conform to anything I have testified before."

"I recall my best recollection of the moment and if I make a mistake I have no hesitancy in changing the story. I never trim—I tell the truth, and that's the chief thing."

"And that is still your attitude?" the attorney asked. "It is. I never trim."

LAFOLLETTE IS ABSENT

House and Senate Appoint Committees to Inform President of Session

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Congress began a new session Monday, faced with a mass of incomplete and new legislation impossible of enactment in the three months before adjournment in March. Sharply at noon, vice president Daves and Speaker Longworth rapped the senate and house to order and notified the membership that the business of legislating was under way.

The holiday-like assembly which usually attends the convening of congress crowded the galleries and the snow-covered capitol plaza and grounds gave a Christmas tone to the ceremonies. As is the custom, the major action in order during the brief session of the opening day, was the appointment of committees to formally notify the president that congress was in session and ready to receive his recommendations. The executives annual message will be read Thursday and then will begin the real work of the session with appropriation bills holding right of way.

PROCEDURE IDENTICAL

The procedure in the two houses Monday was virtually identical. The opening prayer was followed by a roll call, and by the swearing in of new members. In both house and senate floors the scene took on the character of an old time "homecoming" celebration. Members strolled about shaking hands, laughing and talking and slapping each other on the back. The galleries contained many persons of national prominence. Senate and House floors just before the convening resembled class rooms at ease.

CHAPLAINS OFFER PRAYERS

Prayer was offered in the house and senate by the chaplains. The Rev. Dr. D. Muir, in the senate prayed for "Almighty help at this grave moment and for strength to meet the great responsibilities."

On the roll call Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, announced that Senator LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, was absent because of illness.

A bit of drama was thrown into the senate procedure when Senator-Elect Gould of Maine, appeared to be sworn in. Standing before the dais, he was met with a resolution by Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, asking senate investigation of charges of payment by Gould of $100,000 to Canadian officials in connection with a railroad contract. After the resolution was laid aside until Tuesday Gould took the oath of office.

Senator Walsh sent his resolution to the clerk of the senate. It said that "It would not be consistent for the senate to pass unnoticed these charges of such grave character."

On the roll call Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, announced that Senator LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, was absent because of illness.

After the new members had been sworn in, the senate adopted a resolution notifying the house that it began the session. The resolution was carried by a vote of 75 to 15. The speaker Longworth pounding with all his might to get his barely audible order above the din of the floor.

Speaker Longworth was successful in finally having the roll-call completed after the house had been in session about 50 minutes. Then a committee of leaders was appointed to go to the White House with a similar senate resolution to notify the president that congress was in session. Four new members were sworn by the clerk of the house, Frederick W. Dallinger, Massachusetts, John J. Cochran, Missouri, Harry L. Englebright and Richard J. Welch, California. Both houses adjourned out of respect to the memory of the two senators who died during the recess.

FERDINAND SUBMITS TO OPERATION; IS GAINING

Bucharest, Roumania—(P)—King Ferdinand underwent an operation Monday shortly after the return of Queen Marie from her tour of the United States. His physicians announced that the operation was most successful. The operation for hemorrhoids was not a dangerous one. His physicians say the king will be able to leave his bed within a few days.

INSTITUTE WORKS TO DECREASE BULK OF AMERICAN LAW

Problem Confronted by Modern Lawyers Same as That Faced by Justinian

Madison—(AP)—Members of the American Law Institute are working today on the same thing that the emperor Justinian worked on more than a thousand years ago.

In fact, the modern job of reducing the unwieldy bulk of American law to a manageable size and form is "incomparably greater" than that of the great Roman lawgiver, according to Prof. W. H. Page of the University of Wisconsin law school, who addressed a Phi Kappa Phi audience here Friday night.

"Justinian had a law that was practically a unit," said Prof. Page. "We have the law of 48 different states, plus Hawaii and Alaska, and the decisions of the many federal courts, to say nothing of English decisions which cannot be ignored altogether, since our law is based upon that of England."

Over 5,000 volumes of commentaries and treatises, numbering possibly a million cases and covering something like 2,000,000 points of law, must be seriously considered in the restraint of American law. This work is being undertaken by 350 American judges, practicing lawyers and law professors all members of the American Law Institute.

The process of restraint started with the organization of the Law Institute some years ago. Within the institute is the council, Prof. Page declared, composed of 33 members, which selects the director. The institute decided to pick out six topics for restatement, making no attempt to restate the law as an entire subject. The topics chosen were contracts, conflict of laws, torts business associations, agency, and property.

A reporter has been selected by the council to take charge of the restatement of each topic. Each reporter thus far chosen has been a professor of law. He is assisted by advisers. The reporter first prepares part of the restatement of his topic, and sends printed copies to the advisers. Then the whole group meets with the director and takes up the reporter's version of the topic restatement, section by section. The reporter may either ignore the advice of his advisers or accept it.

The reporter transmits the revision to the council and when that body ap-

Lawrence Students Write Poems For Volume "Ships"

Fourteen undergraduates and alumni of Lawrence college have submitted poems for the volume "Ships" to appear by Dec. 15 under auspices of the Appleton chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary professional fraternity for women in journalism. The anthology of verse probably is the first to be published on the Lawrence campus.

Contributors to the volume include:

proves the revision it goes before the whole institute for acceptance or rejection or revision.

None of the restatements has appeared in complete form as yet, but they will, according to Prof. Page, take the form of a rather small text book upon each subject, "unless vital changes are made in the form of the restatement."

"It will attempt a positive, dogmatic statement of law, and it will rely upon its merits, backed by the standing of the institute to give it an authority which, technically at least, has been lacking in our law to the text book. Like a text book, it will have to be revised again and again to keep up with the development of the law," said Prof. Page.

"We have no intention of asking the legislature to adopt the restatement as a statute," Prof. Page explained. "It is not framed for that purpose. It is being prepared solely to influence the bench and bar to adopt it because of its reasonableness, simplicity, workability, and adaptation to life. If it has not these qualities to recommend it, it has none other."

POSTPONE HEARING ON BUILDING DISPUTE

The hearing on the legal dispute between H. A. Noffke, local contractor, and Walter Zschachner, building inspector, in which the latter is charged with willful destruction of property, scheduled for Friday afternoon, was postponed until results of an analysis of the mortar used by the contractor in a construction job is received from Madison. A report on the analysis was expected Saturday morning.

Zschachner, according to Noffke, kicked down part of the foundation to a house the latter was constructing. The building inspector charged he had ordered Noffke to discontinue work but that the latter failed to comply with his edict.

Appleton police made 25 arrests, 137 calls, and traveled 652 miles during October, one of the lightest months of the year, in prosecuting routine police work for the month, according to report made public by Chief George T. Prim on Saturday.

Four of the persons arrested were fugitives from justice.

The consecutive arrests follow: 3: bad checks; 2: speeders; 1: drunk; 2: reckless drivers; 2: disorderly conduct; 2: statutory; 1: drunken driver; 1: receiving stolen property; 1: larceny; 2: embezzlement; 1: operating a car without a license; 1: statutory; 1: abandonment; 1: nonsupport; 2: forgery; 1: violation of building ordinances; 1: robbery; 1: and assault with a deadly weapon.

Several of the cases have not been disposed of as yet, and the total includes juvenile investigations, it was pointed out.

JURIST ADVOCATES CONTINUAL EFFORT AGAINST ACCIDENT

Judge Werner Believes in 12 Months Campaign for Grade Safety

That a continual safety drive against railroad grade crossing accidents should be prosecuted during the entire year and not spasmodically for any given week alone, was the belief expressed by Circuit Judge Edgar V. Werner, reviewing several recent supreme court decisions where clarity was thrown on the interpretation of laws in relation to contributory negligence.

"The presence of a railroad track is always a signal of danger: the automobile driver must exercise due care in approaching grade crossings. He must use his sense of vision and hearing, and if necessary he must slow down or come to a full stop in an effort to avoid accidents," one decision held, the judge pointed out.

Incidentally, Judge Werner said, the same principles of law obtain for street car tracks as do in the specific mention of railroad crossings.

"The most effective manner, I believe," Judge Werner declared, "in which the public can be brought to realize their responsibility in contributing negligence is to caution drivers daily to avoid unnecessary risks of any nature."

A general survey of personal injury cases for any given period would indicate that in many instances injuries are apparently swayed by personal feeling to the point of often overlooking basic principles of law, but in more recent decisions a tendency is appearing to consider negligence on the part of the injured person sufficient cause to find for the defendant.

Several cases appealed to the supreme court where the host and guest element was involved have produced rulings of interest to the general public in so much as often the guest is shown to have assumed equal risks with the host to the detriment of the possibility of collecting damages for personal injuries.

In one citation it was brought out that a woman had accepted an invitation to make an automobile journey with a woman friend. While on the tour a tire blew out on a gravel road and the woman driver, attempting to stop suddenly, skidded the car; the door flew open and the guest was thrown out and injured, later suing for compensation.

The supreme court held that the

SCOUT LEADERS WILL ATTEND CONFERENCES

The first of a series of scoutmasters conferences or roundtables for Boy Scout leaders of Neenah and Menasha will be held Thursday evening at the Menasha Woodenware Co. plant. The meeting will open with a supper at 6 o'clock at the firm's cafeteria. All scoutmasters and assistant scoutmasters of the two cities, Waldo Friedman, chairman of the court of honor, and P. O. Keicher, valley scout executive, will attend the meeting. The conferences will be held once a month during the winter, Mr. Keicher said.

The conferences are to outline troop activities, methods of programs as well as to exchange ideas on all phases of scouting. The work of the first conference will consist of preparing plans and programs for the remaining conferences. Change in the court of honor system to care for a larger number of scouts at one court meeting, also will be discussed. This is caused by the last Neenah-Menasha court of honor at which so many boys desired to take the examinations that the work could not be handled.

COUNTY CROP LOSS FROM SNOW IS SMALL

Outagamie-co suffered a comparatively small loss through crops being snowed under, it is reported. Unofficial estimates say that probably 5 per cent of the best crop was still in the ground when the first storm struck. Some corn in the shock is still on the fields but can be reclaimed and a small amount of flax was probably lost, it was stated.

guest was entirely aware of the condition of the automobile; that she was acquainted with her friend's lack of wide driving experience and therefore held that she had assumed the normal risk of accident.

In essence supreme court rulings seem to show a trend toward an attempt to educate the public to the fact that a considerable amount of common sense should be used before personal injury cases are entered.

COUNTY FARMERS WORKING ON ROADS

Rural Mail Carriers Sing Praises of Those Who Cut Down Snow Drifts

Rural mail carriers are singing the praises of several groups of farmers who have endeavored to put roads in joining their homes in a passable condition. While it is not possible for the farmer to plow the road, several of them have used their disc harrows to cut the snow and ice and eliminate the ruts. The snow is then dragged to pack it down, and a comparatively smooth surface is the result.

Herbert Buelow, route 4, is said to be doing some especially fine work on a stretch of road near his home. During the summer, because of inclement weather, it had been impossible to get into the gravel pits to haul gravel. On those parts of the road which are not covered by snow, Mr. Buelow is hauling gravel and putting the road in first class shape. He also is spending several days cutting weeds along the road. Farmers along the old Apple Creek road also are hauling some gravel this week.

ASK SHOPPERS TO PACK CHRISTMAS GIFTS WITH CARE

Shipment Started Right Is Half Way to Destination,
Agent Says

A shipment started right is halfway to its destination, according to W. N. Kimball, agent of the local office of the American Express company, who has prepared a list of suggestions regarding holiday shipments.

"In preparing shipments, consideration should be given to the nature of the goods, the distance they are to travel and the amount of handling they must necessarily receive," he said. The nature of the gift and the weight will determine whether it can be safely transported with paper wrapping only.

"Fragile articles, like glass and crockery, need the protection of a box or other outside container in addition to ample and suitable cushioning material. If several are forwarded in the same package, each should be separately wrapped and then tied together. 'Play' inside a package may cause damage to the contents. Good strong paper and twine used liberally will help.

"The importance of complete and accurate addressing also is stressed. Instead of writing with lead pencil or using tags, the marks should be applied directly on the surface of the package by waterproof crayon, ink, stencil, or by use of special holiday labels obtainable on request at the express office. The name and address of the sender should be enclosed in the package, in addition to being written on the outside.

"Every address should include the name of the receiver, full street and number, city or town, state and in the case of small towns, the name of the county. This will prevent delays in delivery, often caused by incomplete addresses.

"Legible writing in preparing an address on a Christmas shipment and the care in abbreviating the name of the state will aid in prompt handling during the busy season, when every delay may cause a disappointment, particularly if it results in delivery after Christmas.

"The full name and address of the sender, preceded by the word from, should be marked less conspicuously in the upper left hand corner of the package."

5,000 DOG TAGS ARE RECEIVED BY CLERK

County Clerk John E. Hantschel on Saturday received 5,000 dog tags from the state to accompany 1927 canine licenses. Female tax is $2 and male $1. The license is paid at the time taxes are paid shortly after the first of the new year. It is estimated that there are approximately 4,000 dogs in the county.

No kennel licenses are issued.

Returns from 1926 have been made by all except one village of the county. Tags not used are returned to the state at the end of the year when the new tags are apportioned.

KENOSHA MAGNATE WOULD BUY SCOUT CAMP IF SUITABLE

In direct contrast to the Boy Scout campsite problem of Appleton and the valley council is that of Kenosha Scouts, according to a letter received this week by P. O. Keicher, valley scout executive, from David O. Fogwell of Kenosha. While the valley council has a fine site for a scout camp on Lake Winnebago, the financial situation here is such that the site cannot be purchased. Kenosha has an interested man who will buy its Scouts a campsite, providing it is a good place, but cannot find the site it wants.

The Kenosha man asks Mr. Keicher to aid him to find a "real site, one that has fine, high land, some trees and a real lake and shore." Kenosha wants from 30 to 60 acres of land not more than 100 miles from that city.

INJUNCTION SUIT SETTLED BY CITY

Attorney's Fees and Costs of Action for Plaintiff Are Paid

A settlement of the injunction proceedings instituted last Monday against Appleton by Mrs. Ida S. Brunschweiler, 24 E. Eldorado-st., to restrain the city from flooding the First Ward school playground for skating purposes this winter, was reached outside of court Friday afternoon, the plaintiff dropping her suit when the city paid her attorney's fees of $25 and costs of the action, $6.60. C. E. Behnke was attorney for the plaintiff.

A hearing on the suit was to have been held Saturday morning before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court.

Mrs. Brunschweiler brought action against the city on the grounds that the drainage facilities at the school were not sufficient to adequately dispose of the water in the spring of the year. She alleged that water flowed past her property in that season, keeping her driveway in a muddy condition for several weeks and making her cellar damp from seepage through her basement walls.

At the time she had the papers drawn up, she stated she did not know the city had agreed to improve the drainage system there next spring. When informed of this she agreed to withdraw her action upon the conditions mentioned above.

The school grounds will now be flooded for a skating rink again as soon as weather permits.

Experiment Association Observes Silver Jubilee

Chicago—(P)—Wisconsin's Experiment association, composed of approximately 5,000 people is celebrating its silver jubilee this year, reported R. A. Moore, head of the department of agronomy at the University of Wisconsin, before the International Crop Improvement association here.

Mr. Moore chose the Wisconsin Experiment association as the subject of his report because as he said, "I have not made sufficient study of the other states to learn definitely of their present arrangement of membership and work."

"In Wisconsin," he continued, "we have first the state organization. Secondly, we have the county units, known as county pure bred seed grain associations which are known as orders of the Experiment Association. Third, we have the Wisconsin alfalfa order, Wisconsin hemp order, and Wisconsin soy-bean order which are also orders of the Experiment Association.

"Our county pure bred seed growers organizations attend to work quite largely within their own county. Many of the organizations put on grain shows each year. These are usually put on before the state experiment association show is to be held. These county shows eliminate all of the poor seeds and send to the state associations show only the prize winning samples for competition. This enables the state association to put on a high grade seed show—much better than it could if it depended on having samples sent direct from the growers.

"The state association, as far as possible, co-operates with International Grain and Hay Show and tries, as far as possible, to hold its annual show just previous to the International Grain Show so as to send its prize winning samples to this show. In this way we secure a higher grade of seeds to send to the International Show. By this hearty cooperation of county and special organizations which are combined with our state associations, we carry on a better and higher grade of work than would be possible otherwise. Through the co-operative efforts put forth by all of our cooperative bodies, the Wisconsin Experiment Association has been able to put on the market from two to three million dollars worth of products annually."

"The Experiment association has made two features of its work very prominent. One is the use of those

CRUNCHING SNOW WARNS WARY DEER TO GET AWAY

Four Appleton deer hunters returned late Friday evening from Gilmore Lake where they had spent the past four days in an attempt to get close enough to a buck more than one year old to "bag" him. The hunters are A. W. Laabs, R. F. Shepherd, J. C. Perkins and August Koll. The condition of the woods, according to Mr. Laabs, made it almost impossible to get near enough to the deer to be able to get a shot.

There is from 8 to 10 inches of snow in the woods and a hard crust has formed on the surface of the snow. As soon as a hunter steps on the crust it breaks through with a crunching sound and several times this was the means of warning deer of the approach of the Appleton marksmen. There is an abundance of deer, Mr. Laabs said, and they saw many of them from a distance.

CHRISTMAS SAVING CLUBS TO RETURN ABOUT $110,000

Checks Are Being Distributed
Now, Appleton Bank Officials Report

Checks amounting to approximately $110,000 will be delivered prior to Christmas day to those enrolled in one or more of the Christmas Savings clubs conducted by Appleton banks, according to estimates made by cashiers and heads of savings departments of local banks. Some of the banks issued the checks last week while others have started delivery which will continue until Christmas.

The clubs, started last winter, called for regular deposits, the period to terminate before Dec. 25, 1926. Practically all checks will have been delivered by Dec. 20.

Appleton bankers say that the Christmas club idea is spreading rapidly and indications are that more clubs will be organized next year. More than $400,000,000 will be distributed to nearly 8,000,000 members of the Christmas club in the United States according to estimates made by the Christmas Club corporation of New York city. The figure is an increase of about $85,000,000 over 1925.

The average distribution per member amounts to $51.32, the corporation states. More than $150,000,000 will be placed immediately into stores of the country in the rush of Christmas buying, while a large sum will be deposited in permanent savings and thrift accounts, it is expected.

The Wisconsin total is expected to be approximately $6,742,000, while the total of the east north central section, consisting of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin, will be in the neighborhood of $82,200,000.

MAN WANTED HERE IS UNDER ARREST IN SOUTHERN CITY

Authorities Are Not Sure
Whether an Attempt Will Be Made to Extradite Him

Wanted in Appleton for procuring money under false pretenses from a local hotel manager more than 2 years ago William F. Krull, it was reported by Police Chief George T. Prim, is under arrest in Atlanta, Ga., following investigations conducted by the department.

Whether Mr. Krull will be extradited was problematical Monday morning. The amount involved is approximately $250, which, it is alleged, was procured by Mr. Krull when he drew a sight draft on a Californian for that amount and cashed the draft here.

District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf said that he had word from Atlanta that habeas corpus proceedings in the Krull case were to be heard before noon Monday. Local authorities wired asking that the matter be held adjourned until a decision is reached as to whether the charges against the prisoner are strong enough to warrant a fight to extradite him to Wisconsin.

Krull, Chief Prim said, has declared he will fight any attempt to bring him to Appleton to face trial. He is described as a blond salesman and was registered at the hotel in Appleton with his wife. Since the departure of the couple, Mr. Lonsdorf said, hearing that a warrant had been issued for her husband's arrest Mrs. Krull wrote and declared that Krull had died.

POLICE LOOKING FOR "PEEPING TOM"

Frightened Woman Reports
Man Climbs Trees to Look into Windows

Reports that a window peeper is again working in Appleton were received by police Saturday night from the First and Second wards.

In one instance the alleged prowler is said to have climbed a tree that he might obtain a better view through a second story window and in the other a police search was instituted in the vicinity of Smith hall for a man declared to have been seen loitering in the vicinity.

No accurate description was obtained in either instance but it is believed to have been the same man who caused considerable consternation among women some time ago when a number of reports were current that a man was approaching unaccompanied women and was entering unprotected houses.

A shipment of two elephants consigned to Eli Nelson of Chippewa Falls has been postponed until spring, upon advice of the manager of the Milwaukee zoo. It was thought that the cold weather would injure the health of the animals, which have recently arrived from India, and they will be quartered at a circus training camp near New York until spring.

Charles Eichmann, 30, probably the oldest hunter in Manitowoc county, was drowned near his home in the town of Liberty Thursday when he fell into a roadside ditch as he attempted to jump over it. Mr. Eichmann was hunting rabbits at the time.

Missing since Nov. 15, when he mysteriously disappeared from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Flok at Jacksonport, Wis., Louis Kern, 36, was found at Fond du Lac. Relatives stated that he spent over two weeks wandering between points in Door-co and Fond du Lac, being out in stormy weather. He is being returned to Jacksonport.

he appeared in municipal court in Green Day Friday morning to answer to an abandonment charge preferred by his wife, Marie. "She should have thrown you out long ago," observed the judge when he heard the evidence. "I'm going to do some throwing myself. One to two years in state prison at Waupun." "Thanks," replied the prisoner as he was hustled out of court by a deputy sheriff. Roskowski had been in court before on abandonment charges.

Sufficient allowance for shrinkage in value of the property of the Rahr Brewing Co., Green Bay, caused by prohibition, was made by federal income tax authorities at the time prohibition went into effect, Judge F. A. Geiger ruled Friday.

The decision was handed down in the suit of the company against A. H. Wilkinson, collector of internal revenue, to recover taxes paid under protest. The taxes, on income received during 1918, 1919, and January, 1920, amounted to $34,201.

In its complaint the company set forth that, due to the approach of prohibition, the value of its property declined $58,018 between Feb. 1, 1918, and Jan. 31, 1919. The government allowed for a decline of only $83,478. The decline in value from Feb. 1, 1919, to Jan. 31, 1920, amounted to $41,533, the company held, but the government allowed only $34,879.

The company also stated that when prohibition came it had on hand beer that was worth $29,437. This beer had no value after prohibition, it was said, but the government failed to allow anything for this fact.

Four men who served as mayors or aided otherwise in Manitowoc's business and civic life will be honored by four bronze tablets to be placed in various parts of the city by the local chapters of Pythias lodge. Dedication of the memorials will take place Saturday. State Supreme Chancellor R. S. Witte, Milwaukee, will speak at the exercises.

The prominent citizens, now deceased, to be honored are Kilmer Jones, founder of the first public library at Manitowoc; John Schuette, pioneer merchant and banker; William Rahr, business man and mayor, and Henry Stolze, mayor and exponent of municipal ownership of public utilities.

Mayor Martin Georgenson will preside at the exercises, which will open at the municipal utilities plant, where the Stolze tablet will be dedicated. The high school band will furnish music for the occasion.

THE POST-CRESCENT'S PROGRAM FOR A GREATER APPLETON

City Manager Form of Government.
Greater Representation for Appleton on County Board.
A systematic plan of Park and Playground extensions and improvements.

THE COUNTY TAX LEVY

The most serious consequence which might develop from the discovery that errors have been made by the county board in levying taxes for highway purposes is the possible straining of friendly relations between the city and the remainder of the county. In the last three or four years a spirit of mutual cooperation has been built up and it would be a severe loss to both city and rural sections if this spirit of mutual helpfulness should be jeopardized.

It is quite generally admitted that a mistake has been made and that this mistake can be remedied. It is human nature to make mistakes and if the county board has not been properly advised as to the legality of its procedures and mistakes crept in it isn't necessary to condemn the board. There is no evidence at hand to show that a mistake was intentionally made for no community would benefit from it. If too much money is collected from the city of Appleton because the levy for highway purposes is beyond the legal limit too much also is collected from Liberty and Black Creek and every other taxing community in the county. There is every indication that the board wants to be fair and it has taken the necessary steps to obtain expert legal opinion and to correct any mistakes that might have been made.

The entire November session, with its heated discussions of important matters, presented a splendid argument for a larger representation from the city of Appleton on the county board. Whether representation be based on population, property value Appleton is entitled to and should have more than six supervisors. Based on the 1920 census Appleton has about 36 per cent of the county's population and on that basis it is entitled to at least 14 or 15 supervisors. On the basis of property value it should have 16 or 18 supervisors. Surely 12 supervisors, double the present number, is not too many.

No great difficulty now stands in the way of creating six new wards and sending six more supervisors to board sessions. Before the union school system was adopted the district school boundaries formed an impediment but this difficulty has been removed and nothing of a serious nature remains. Other Wisconsin cities in recent years have increased the number of wards and the number of supervisors without encountering a great deal of trouble.

Other communities in the county could not take offense if Appleton increases its representation because of the imminent fairness of it. The argument that a mere increase in the number of representatives on the board will not result in better representation for the city falls flat because surely twelve votes count for more than six and there is a greater probability that the city will be represented by strong men if twelve are elected than only six.

Here is a chance for the mayor and the council to "do something" for the city without increasing the tax burden. Possibly there is time to create the new wards before the spring election so that the additional supervisors can be elected next April. At any rate we believe the council should begin consideration of this important matter at once and take such steps as are necessary to bring about this desirable change.

EFFICIENCY, OR LAZINESS?

Emperor Augustus of Rome was a lazy fellow, say those who are excavating in the subterranean cellars of Rome to restore her to imperial grandeur.

They have discovered that the emperor, to save himself trouble in descending from his home on the Palatine to the temple of Vesta in the Forum, where his duties as Pontiff took him, had a new temple built adjoining his home on the Palatine.

Washington, our own capital city, is discussing a new group plan for housing executive offices. They discuss enclosing the White House with shadowing ranks of skyscrapers, tearing down homes of sacred tradition to make way for this new efficiency.

"The president should be near his workers," they say.

President Coolidge is not lazy, we know, but it's conceivable that some of those who want to be close to him are.

In other words, is this 20th century "efficiency" that would destroy Washington's beauty the same old lethargy of the Emperor Augustus, under another name?

ANOTHER MURDER MYSTERY

The trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, for the murder of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, who was found slain with the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall on the Phillips farm near New Brunswick four years ago, resulted in the acquittal of all of the defendants. The theory of the state was that Mrs. Hall and her brothers had committed the crime because of a love affair between her husband and Mrs. Mills, choir singer. The case attracted national attention, and in the East it was regarded as one of the most important murder trials ever conducted.

The termination of the case leaves the mystery surrounding the murder unsolved. During the trial one of the witnesses made the statement that he could tell who committed the murder, but the court refused to permit him to testify or to order him to do so. So far as motive was concerned, the prosecution offered strong testimony, but it was not able to produce other circumstantial evidence sufficient to establish guilt. Willie Stevens set up an alibi which the state could not break down. He proved by credible witnesses that he was far from the scene of the murder the night it was committed. Great preparation was made by both prosecution and defense for the trial, and able lawyers were employed. An investigation covering years preceded the indictments. It is an unfortunate end, not that the defendants were acquitted, for if they are innocent they are entitled to their freedom, but the fact remains that the murderers seem likely to go unpunished and that justice is to be defeated.

We are a country of many murder mysteries. The Olson case in Wisconsin is one in point just now. Another notable case is the assassination of Don Mellett, at Canton. Murderers seem to have the best of it not only in frequently escaping detection, but in escaping punishment before sentimental juries and weak-kneed judges. The administration of justice in the United States is not a thing to boast of. It is a more serious condition than most persons realize and in the background the public itself is responsible.

THE MISSING ELOCUTIONIST

As swiftly come the days and go,
And customs vanish with their flight,
No more we see the oil lamps glow,
No more the Welsh-burners bright,
Long since the "what-not" left our sight;
And these are not so very missed,
But where's the girl who could recite?
The family elocutionist?

Now sleigh bells seldom tinkle low,
The roads no longer are gleaming white,
A lass still waits to meet her beau,
But out they journey every night,
Ice cream and cake still bring delight,
Small boys still laugh when maids are kissed,
But where's the girl who could recite?
The family elocutionist?

No more the album plush we show,
And flowers of wax have vanished quite,
Quartettes still warble "Soft and Low,"
The village cut-up's here all right,
Of long forgotten things I might
Compile today a lengthy list,
But where's the girl who could recite?
The family elocutionist?

Prince, 'tis of long-lost fads I write,
Once loved now vanished like the mist,
Where is the girl who could recite?
The family elocutionist?

PUNGENT BUT NOT PENETRATING

About two years ago Prof. Louis Kahlenberg, acknowledged authority in the field of chemistry, announced that he had secured experimental evidence that boric acid may be absorbed into the blood directly through the normal or unbroken skin. In recording this observation he mentions that he used the tumeric paper test to indicate the presence of boric acid in the blood. Whether there is a possible margin of error in such technique, I am not enough chemist to judge, but granting Professor Kahlenberg has established the permeability of the skin to boric acid (no other scientific authority has confirmed the experimental work, so far as I can learn), the fact remains that we have no reason to imagine that any medicinal chemical or food substance can or does penetrate the unbroken skin when applied in liniment, ointment, cosmetic, bath, dye or paint.

Be your favorite liniment ever so poignant and ever so pungent, nevertheless not with undue impudence I assure you that it will not penetrate your skin unless the skin is first scratched, scraped off, punctured or blistered. This is physiology, which some interests seem determined we shall not teach. Although no one can scientifically challenge this teaching (with the possible exception of Professor Kahlenberg, the only fly in the liniment), we need not lose sight of the fact that many substances are absorbed into the blood when applied in the form of liniment, ointment, cosmetic, dye, paint or bath, among them being iodine, chloroform, turpentine, mercury, lead, arsenic, sulphur, ammonia, mustard, the essential or aromatic oils (peppermint, wintergreen, capsicum, etc.), aniline, nitrobenzol, creosote, guaiacol, phenol (carbolic acid), menthol. In every instance the substance is absorbed through the lungs, after it has been volatilized by the warmth of the body or by friction or both.

Nowadays it is not so important that a good liniment shall smell to high heaven and look like some fiendish brew of the evil one. What enlightened folk want is something to rub on to relieve the ache or pain, and the less mess and fuss this involves the better they like it. So we find solidified liniment displacing the old fashioned style, and this modern medicament comes in a neat box or still more cleanly collapsible tube. One such elegant liniment which has won popularity is called,

Analgesic Balm

Menthol 5 grains
Methyl salicylate 1 dram
Petrolatum 1 ounce

Lanolin is a ceresin-like substance obtained from oil of peppermint. Methyl salicylate is oil of wintergreen. These are not only local counterirritants but very volatile and freely inhaled by the patient, the methyl salicylate, at least, producing the systemic effect of other salicylates, such as acetyl salicylate (acid ester, commonly known as aspirin). Petrolatum is petroleum jelly—paraffin oil in the soft, semisolid form. Lanolin is wool fat. In using analgesic balm care should be taken that none may get in the eyes, as by wiping the rubbing the eyes with fingers which still contain traces of the menthol. Many good medicine manufacturers market excellent ready made preparations of analgesic balm, under that name or special name.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Typewriting

Does the use of the typewriter enlarge the knuckles or joints of the fingers? (J. H.)

Answer—I think not. My two index fingers seem to be no larger than the other fingers which never put a key.

Hot Drink

Is it bad for children to drink tea and coffee? I have been giving mine cocoa, but the other day I read that it is not good for them. I think they should have a hot drink and would like to know what is best. They are 8 and 11 years old. (Mrs. R. X. F.)

Answer—Children under 16 years of age are injured by coffee or tea; and only less so by cocoa or chocolate. Milk is the best beverage for children. Heat it if they prefer it hot, but heating above 100 degrees F. (body temperature), diminishes the vitamin value of fresh milk. Sterilization is heating to 110 degrees F. and holding at that temperature about twenty minutes, then cooling; this kills off disease germs if any are present in the milk, but also destroys vitamins. Hot soups make a wholesome beverage for a child's lunch, homemade soups preferably. Milk may be flavored with caramel (burnt sugar) or with a little cocoa, or with one of the modern cereal chocolate preparations.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

REFLECTING THE TIMES IN FICTION

Recently I happened to pick up "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," by Margaret Deland. It so happens that it is exactly 20 years ago that this novel was first published. I read it as the time and had not looked into it since then.

It would be worth while for anyone to pick up this novel after 20 years if for no other reason than to become aware of the wide chasm that exists between the fiction of today and the fiction of 20 years ago. The chasm is much wider than the one that lies between the fiction of 20 years ago and that of the 50 or 75 years that preceded it.

In "Helena Ritchie," as everybody knows, an essentially good, that is a fundamentally good, woman leads an irregular life. Before she is divorced from a vicious husband she lives with a man she loves. A child enters the story and the good people of the community, a minister, a doctor, decide she is not good enough to have the care of the child. In the end, when she has repented in sackcloth and ashes and has gone to a far-flung western city to live, the good people take a chance on her and entrust the child to her care.

BELIEVE SOCIETY RULES
But the talk in the book is an even greater revelation than the implications of the story. The Rev. Dr. Lavender and Dr. King, the family physician, preach at the poor woman, page after page, chapter after chapter. And she has nothing to say in her own defense. She takes for granted, as the author takes for granted, that she is lost in sins and trespasses and that there is no defense to be made. The assumption is that society is absolutely right, that its rules and taboos are just, and that any deviation from those rules is per se wrong.

The illustrations in the book show that drag the floor, and those skirts show no greater contrast with the knee-length skirts of today than the fundamental assumptions of the story show with the moral assumptions in fiction today.

It so happens that I recently read "The Romantic Comedians," by Ellen Glasgow. Now Ellen Glasgow is not a neurotic writer. It is perfectly good form for the best women to be seen reading an Ellen Glasgow book. She has almost become a woman's club classic and the average mother feels perfectly secure when she sees her daughter reading one of this very able Virginia writer's novels.

But in "The Romantic Comedians" the pages and chapters of sermonizing about such a situation as treated in "Helena Ritchie" would be absolutely inconceivable. It would be out of tune with the spirit of the book—with the spirit of any present-day novel of the better class, artistically considered.

ATTITUDE CHANGES
In fact, in "The Romantic Comedians," a young girl who has been lured into a marriage with a rich old man, runs off with a young fellow of her own age, and while this act of hers is treated ironically by the author, the implication of the story is that on the whole so-called good people of the community who countenanced and encouraged the marriage of December with June are more to blame than the girl.

A novel may fairly be condemned if it fails to reflect the real life of its time honestly or if it overemphasizes certain elements and excludes others. But it is less fair to condemn a book because its characters talk freely about sex. Everybody knows that such talk is common in circles today that would not have dreamed of indulging in it 20 years ago. Times have changed and honest fiction changes with them.

Through a newspaper advertisement a man at Geneva, Switzerland, has learned that he is heir to $250,000, left by his uncle in a bank sixty years ago.

Government statistics bring out the fact that the uneducated man has only one chance in 500 to attain distinction. Q. Why is Capt. H. D. Campbell called the safest flier? V. D.

A. Captain Campbell, who is a member of the Marine Corps, was awarded the Schiff Memorial Trophy as the aviator compiling the greatest number of hours in the air during the fiscal year 1926, without serious accident. His total time was 839 hours 40 minutes. This is not only the record in the Navy and Marine Corps but also in the Army. Officials of the National Aeronautical Association say that his time established a world's record.

Q. By whom was Scotland called Caledonia? W. O.

A. Caledonia was the Latin name for Scotland.

Q. What of beef is used dried beef? O. T. D.

A. The round is commonly used. Q. Was Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" based upon actual facts? C. R.

A. No. The story was written many years before the successful period of the submarine. It is true, however, that vessels capable of submerging and of traveling about beneath the surface of the water were built and more or less successfully demonstrated before the story was written. It is said that a crude submarine boat was built in the reign of James I. of England, to be moved by oars. Other such boats were constructed at intervals, including the American Turtle, built during the Revolutionary War, and used in an unsuccessful attempt to blow up a British war vessel, Robert Fulton, the inventor of the first practical steamboat, built one with which he secured fairly satisfactory results. The Confederate government built several during the Civil War. One of them blew up the steamer Housatonic in Charleston harbor; it was itself swamped and its crew drowned.

Q. Are the carvings on gas masks painted different colors to indicate their different uses? A. M. E.

A. Yes. The three most usual instances are green, used as a protection against ammonia; white, hydrocyanic acid; and red, carbon monoxide and smoke. The last named is most commonly known as the fireman's canister. The actual face mask does not vary, its chief qualification being air-tightness.

Q. Who was Mr. Greatheart? R. E. V.

A. He is a character in Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," the guide of Christian's wife and children upon their journey to the Celestial City.

Q. How close to the North Pole do people live? F. W.

A. According to the late Admiral Peary, permanent human life exists within some 700 miles of the North Pole. None is found within 2300 miles of the South Pole.

Q. What is the fastest thing in nature? R. T.

A. Dr. Charles H. T. Townsend believes that the fastest living thing is yet discovered by man is the cephalopod, or deep octopus. This is a native of North and South America and parts of Europe and can travel 315 miles an hour.

Q. Do women have the right to vote in Quebec, Canada? S. D. T.

A. Quebec is the only Canadian province where women are not enfranchised, except in Federal elections when they may vote in conformity with the National Act.

TEN SENATORS IN 'LAME DUCK' GROUP OF NEW CONGRESS

Nearly Half Hundred in House
Will See End of Service in Short Term

Washington—(AP)—The short session of congress, better known as the "lame duck" session, is at hand. The limping flock this year includes ten senators and nearly half a hundred of the house.

Just who is author of the oft-repeated phrase is not a matter of official record, but it applies to those members who were defeated in the recent elections and who will not return to capital hill when the congress elected last Nov. 2, convenes.

Besides those defeated at the polls, a number of senators and house members who were not candidates for reelection are entering the concluding session of long terms of continuous service. Included in the group is Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, for many years an outstanding figure in the senate chamber, and Representatives Thatcher of Kansas, and Voigt of Wisconsin, who have taken prominent parts in the affairs of the house.

"LAME DUCK" MEMBERS
James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York, chairman of the senate military committee, and George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania, are members of the "lame duck" flock in the senate which also gathers under its brooding wing the following:

Ralph H. Cameron of Arizona, Richard P. Ernst of Kentucky, John W. Harrell of Oklahoma, Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin, William E. McKinley of Illinois, Rice W. Means of Colorado, Robert N. Stanford of Oregon, and O. E. Weller of Maryland.

In the house both the wets and dries feel the effect of the last broadside of the voters as William D. Upshaw of Georgia, one of the dry standard-bearers for many terms, was sent to the "lame duck" group by a primary defeat, while John Phillip Hill of Maryland, the leader of the wets, was unsuccessful in an attempt to capture the Republican senatorial nomination in his state.

David W. Stewart of Iowa, although not a lame duck, will not return to the senate after next March 4, being elected only to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Albert B. Cummins. Former Senator Smith W. Brookhart will take Stewart's place after that date.

Representative Frank D. Scott, of Michigan, chairman of the house merchant marine committee, also takes a place in the "lame duck" flock of the House after serving six continuous terms, while Francis P. Paterson, Jr., of New Jersey, and Nathan D. Perlman, of New York, will depart from the house in March after serving four terms apiece.

FRANTIC PARENTS ASK POLICE TO HELP FIND SON

Appleton police have received a frantic plea from a mother to assist in search for a 17 year old boy who disappeared from his home in Sibley, Ill., on Oct. 25, 1926. His name is Loren H. Brucker described as 5 feet, 7 inches tall; weight 150 pounds, light complexion, light brown hair and brown eyes. He has scar on his lower lip on the left side and wore a gray-green overcoat and cap, a sweater jacket, black low shoes and blue trousers when last seen. The young man had had no trouble at home and his disappearance is a mystery to his parents, the letter stated.

FIRST ROUND ENDS IN DRAW IN COURT

Building Inspector and Noffke
"Razz" Each Other at Hearing

Punctuated principally with personal allusions to the fitness of each other to conduct his own vocation, before and after a short court session before Municipal Judge Berg, the first round of the battle between H. A. Noffke, contractor and Walter Zschaechner, city building inspector, ended in an ostensible draw when Judge Berg adjourned the hearing until next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The city of Appleton, in representation of the building inspector alleges that Mr. Noffke removed an inspection sign placed by Mr. Zschaechner on some work Mr. Noffke was doing.

Points of law were clouded and in the opinion of the judge the statute under which action was brought by the city was at variance with one under which prosecution should have been instituted.

Other litigation is promised before the affair is concluded. Mr. Noffke claims that the building inspector did considerable damage to property in tearing down part of a foundation wall under construction and Mr. Zschaechner will contend, it is believed that he acted within his rights as a city employee.

Esther Mau of Appleton, played for dancing.

Members of the local team were Lawrence Zwicker, center; Clarence Bylow and John Green, forwards; and Carlo Wiecek and Hugh Sutton, guards. A preliminary game was played between the Ellington team and a second squad from Twelve Corners.

Flowers Of Leather, Fur, Rubber Make Appearance
Debutantes Prefer Bouffant Frock For Evening Wear

BY BETSY SCHUYLER
NEW YORK—The prize for the week's best wardrobe goes to our distinguished French visitor, Mme. Cecile Sorel.

Her furs, jewels, brooches and fur represent feminine luxury raised to the nth degree. This darling of the French theatre has never considered a dress that is not practical. She believes in femininity, allure and coquetry. And she expresses herself in her attire as well as in her speech.

For sheer, breath-taking gorgeousness, I recommend her costume of orange-colored velvet embroidered in gold and pearls, and veiled in a fur-edged sleeveless coat of peach-colored chiffon with a long train in the back.

And for airy, tantalizing provocativeness, I bow to an evening gown of tulle in enchanting shades of blue trimmed with ruffles of ombre ecru, and a surprise bodice of tulle over silver cloth.

OTHERS EQUALLY STARTLING
Besides these two, my special pet, her wardrobe includes a red velvet cape lined casually with priceless chinchilla and a black velvet one bordered with white fur that winds about her like a Roman toga.

In negligees, she runs to shades of pink and rose, with much sable banding, and colored ostrich. As for jewels, she treats diamonds like rhinestones and has an enormous pear-shaped emerald that is quite beyond description.

Her stock may include some handsomely accessible models, but I did not see them. I can see these any time such elegance as she achieves. At the debutante ball given for Florence Kip Clarke, one of the social events of the season, I saw ever so many deb's in frocks of airy tulle, and chiffon. The brooches and heavy fabrics were on the matrons. I noticed, too, that while the matrons wore draperies and straightline effects, the deb's showed a preference for the bouffant frock. Nearly all had uneven hemlines and delicately molded bodices.

It is obvious that evening shoes are as gorgeous as frocks, fashioned of brocade, embroidered fabrics, and jewelled with rhinestones and pearls. The sash, glorified and fancy free, is to be reckoned with.

Not only do feet scintillate, but so do heads. Jewelled bandeaus give the bobbed head a festive air and also hold the transformation, if any, neatly in place.

I saw Jeanne Eagles with her gold-en hair pulled back plainly from her very lovely brow and held in place at the nape of her neck with a jeweled comb of antique gold.

Many fearless young women, whose faces have not yet begun to show signs of wear, wear a bandeau of sparkling stones covering the hair-line in front. Others wear little jewelled caps of pearls interwoven in curls or lying smoothly against uncurled lustrous tresses.

And incidentally, it is worth mentioning upon that long gloves, returning to fashion's favor—probably another little expense before long. At the opera I noticed Mrs. William G. Loew in a frock of metal cloth and gloves to her elbows. I saw Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse in black velvet and pearls, and Ruth Falnstock fairly buried under an enormous feather fan of vivid scarlet, and Mrs. George H. Warren with an equally large pink one.

CLOTHES AND MENUS
Nightclubbing, I saw Mrs. Leonard Cox in black velvet, Julia Hoyt in white chiffon and rhinestones, Princess Matchabelli in black and rose, and Mrs. Marcus Daly ablaze with jewels and Mrs. Paul Whitman in a bouffant frock of black lace over white with some vivid green somewhere.

Luncheon at Pierre's is always a time to watch the clothes as well as the menu card. In the space of little more than an hour I saw Mrs. H. McKay Twombly in a black coat colored with chinchilla, Eugene Woodruff in black velvet, with a cunning black velvet hat, Genevieve Clendenin in a panther coat and a brown satin turban, and stunning Mrs. Peter A. B. Widener with two handsome silver fox scarfs on her straightline black coat.

And I can't emphasize too emphatically the importance of the artificial flower, both for day and for evening. Those for street may be of leather, fur, rubber or feathers as well as of material of the frock or coat, and those for evening are of chiffon, silk, gold or silver cloth. They range in size from the forget-me-not to the sunflower.

SEASON'S DEBS

Here are three pretty sub-deb daughters of New York's socially elect who will be introduced this season. From top to bottom: Sara H. millinery, hosiery and leather industries.

INSPIRATIONS OF WILD FRUITS
The card is divided into seven bright and seven pastel shades.

"Nectar," a muted pink lavender, favored by Paris milliners, is an original modish pastel hue. "Wild cherry," the raspberry color, may be one of the leading colors next spring. It nearly matches "wild raspberry."

"Blue jewel," a bright, light blue harmonizing with "blue turquoise," is a fashionable shade for winter resort hats. The Spanish note is seen in "golden poppy," a brilliant orange.

POPCORN, NEW YELLOW
An unusual shade of pinkish terra cotta tone, called "marsh rose," suggests the soft tints of a Pampeluna fresco. It almost matches "Grecian rose," so called, because it is like the light red of ancient Grecian pottery.

For sport sweaters, "popcorn," a light yellow; "Mother Goose," a neutral blue; "tan," and "gooseberry green," a light apple green, are fashionable shades, as well as the delicate "carnegie pink." Blues occupy an important place. The dull, silvery "French blue," in the more intense indigo shade called "liberty blue," and the pastel greenish blue called "vert de gris."

Women and children at Digby, N. S., have been able to land fish with their hands, so prolific has the run of pollock and herring been.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, croscote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

In that embarrassing moment Faith's first thought was for Cherry—she was immensely glad that her little sister had not opened the door when she and Bob Hathaway were in each other's arms.

"Yes," I took the letters," Faith told her quietly, but she could not keep her eyes from shining with joy. "It came to ask Bob for an explanation, and it's just as I thought—it wasn't Bob at all; he knew nothing whatever about the letters. It was his stenographer, Lola Gonzales."

"She hates me like poison," Cherry's scarlet lips set in a thin, ugly line.

"Why?" Faith put her hand on Cherry's shoulder and turned the girl so that she had to face her.

"Well, I got her job with Mr. Clumby, didn't I? And if you must know," the little head, in its saucy brown cloche was flung up defiantly. "She's nuts about Chris Wiley, and I made him give her the air."

"He must have laid her off only temporarily," Bob Hathaway cut in unsmilingly, "for he's been going around with her since you became engaged to Uncle Ralph."

"That's a lie!" Cherry flung the ugly word at him in childish fury. "He's through with me. I tell you! I guess I ought to know."

"Because you're seeing Chris Wiley yourself, on the sly," Bob Hathaway's anger rode high, reckless of Faith's distressed, pleading eyes.

"Cherry, you've got to apologize to Bob," Faith seized her sister's arms and shook her as if she had been a naughty child. "He's going to do everything he can to unravel this mystery, and put a stop to those blackmail letters, and I'm not going to let you pay him back by calling him ugly names. Apologize right now."

"To Bob's amazement Cherry's small face began to quiver, and tears welled up in the golden eyes.

"I'm sorry, Bob. I'll be good. I apologize," Cherry's voice came sweet and muffled from the little head cradled in the hollow of Faith's shoulder.

"All right, infant!" Bob's voice was comradely and gay again. "Now, listen to the report of Detective Faith Lane, and we'll decide where to go from here."

After Faith had rapidly sketched the day's adventures for Cherry—the finding of conclusive evidence against Lola Gonzales, Bob's logical accounting for his meetings with "Handsome Harry," Pete Gonzales, under the veranda of "Ye Olde Logue Cabin," and Lola's frightened fleeing during their absence from lunch.

"There's no use wasting time in speculating on how Lola got the low-down on Cherry. The thing to do is to find her and put the fear of the Lord and the law into her. Wait—I'll look up her address and we'll drive out to her house."

Within five minutes the three of them were in Bob's roadster, headed for the "across-the-tracks" part of town.

It was Bob who knocked at the door and who greeted the shapely, middle-aged, blonded woman who at last answered his knock.

"I'm your daughter's employer, Mr. Hathaway, Mrs. Gonzales," Bob smiled pleasantly. "She left me quite suddenly today, while I was at lunch and her note said her mother was very ill. I wanted to offer any assistance in my power."

The woman but shook her head in frank bewilderment. "That Lola! What'll she be up to next? Lord, Mr. Hathaway, I ain't sick! And if I was Lola wouldn't know nothing about it. She ain't been home at home for a dog's age. She got sore and left home when I laid the law down to her about that low-life rascal, Chris Wiley."

"Do you know where she is living Mrs. Gonzales?" Bob's voice was sympathetic and ingratiating at the same time.

"Got a room over on the West Side somewhere. Oh, Pete! Pete! Do you know Lola's address?" She turned her head and bowed into the black interior behind the door.

"Who wants to know?" a hoarse voice challenged.

"Mr. Hathaway, that Lola works for," Mrs. Gonzales shouted. "Come mere!"

There was no answer. Faith and Bob exchanged a quick glance of foreboding and suspicion as the seconds dragged on. At last Mrs. Gonzales, impatient from bawling, unsuccessfully for her son, went in search of him.

"I'm going to scout around the back of the house," Bob told her suddenly. "Chase him in the car if he comes out this way. Cherry can drive."

AMERICAN MARRIAGE MARKET

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

THE American marriage market that exchanges its millions for foreign titles, with a bride and groom thrown in, is quite as active as it was thirty years ago.

The much-discussed annulment of the Marlborough-Vanderbilt alliance, and its manner of having been procured, may be out of the ordinary, but the American public is no stranger to the marriage of convenience.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, the cousin of the former Duchess of Marlborough, says in an article, "that such sales are not uncommon among the socially elect, and that there is now one family in New York City which for a past ten years has exerted its every effort to form an alliance with the British crown."

"If the Parliament of Great Britain" says Mr. Vanderbilt, "were to set aside 'a certain ceremony' required precedent to such a marriage, it is possible that a New York girl, not so distantly related to the writer (Mr. Vanderbilt) would become a future queen of England."

The results are the same. You cannot change these hearts of ours. A loveless marriage is bound to end in unhappiness, and that usually means divorce.

The material marriage is now an approved custom in all classes. And as mothers have learned greater worldly wisdom, they have learned to begin early to make allies of their daughters in the matrimonial campaign. They start at the cradle to preach the doctrine of the "creditable marriage," which translated means "a good catch." You cannot blame girls for growing up to think that the only desirable marriage is the materialistic one with worldly gain behind it. That is one thing that 30 years has made.

But the results are the same. You cannot change these hearts of ours. A loveless marriage is bound to end in unhappiness, and that usually means divorce.

Society Miss Wear Little Girl Frocks

Mayfair is in the grip of a "little girl" cult.

Grown-up society misses are wearing coats and hats "which make their friends look twice to see if it is really the grown-up miss or the young set. The high-waisted little coats look as though their wearers should be out rolling hoops instead of attending dignified functions.

The new evening frocks reflect the "little girl" influence. One charming frock made of green taffeta was seen with a long pleated skirt attached to a little high-waisted bodice and had tiny, puffed sleeves, the small velvet muff for the wrists served the purpose of a vanity bag.

STYLES FOR ROYALTY
English women generally look to their royalty to set the racing fashions. Queen Mary appeared at the Cambridgeshire dress in a grey street suit with a grey turban hat. The Duchess of York wore an attractive wine-colored hat and a brown coat with a heavy fur collar.

"ARTY" SPORTS COSTUMES
Futurist art is having its heyday in the new British sports costumes. Queer shaped points, zig-zagging down the fronts of dresses and up the sleeves have made their appearance. Kasha cloth in light blue and warm bright scarlet seem the favorite colors on the London golf links. Designed for wearing with the new sports frocks is an amusing feminized version of the Scots bonnet.

COCKTAIL PARTIES POPULAR
Cocktail parties are the rage of London society just now. Mrs. Wilfrid Ashley started it by her evening cocktail parties for politicians. Since then, Count Grinot, the artist, has them on Sunday mornings after church, and even Lady Trevor. Dances held one in the interests of the St. Andrews' Eve Ball.

MOTORING WARDROBE
Leather motor coats, formerly brown, ugly and useful, combine brightness and novelty as worn by the English women this fall. Some are lined with fawn and, beautified with a deep hem and collar of plaited leather. A blue leather coat with trimmings of black and white leather in a checker board effect is another version. Sometimes the coats are made in two-color leathers, while others have the plaiting in contrasting colors.

GLASS FASHIONS
Sparkling sequins, which are the glass of fashion for the moment, give a shimmering effect on the dance frocks in London's ballrooms, but after the dances are over the floor sweepers have a busy time clearing them up from the floor.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG
The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c. adv.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

(READ THE STORY THEN, COLOR THE PICTURE)

THE Tynmites tramped down the road, and on their backs they packed a load of burlap sacks that they had filled with apples, nuts and sweet. They'd covered nearly a mile or two when Copsy said, "I'm tired clear through. Let's sit down by the roadside while we rest our bones and eat."

They dropped their sacks upon the ground and real nice resting places found. Wee Scout yawned and murmured, "I could drop right off to sleep." But then they heard a honking sound and all jumped up and looked around. A touring car was coming down the roadway, long and steep.

Instead of being filled with fright, they quickly disappeared from sight and as the auto drew up close, it stopped on in the road. The Tynmites looked on, and then decided they would join him when he drove away. I guess that he will have a heavy load.

The driver shed his coat and hat and fixed a tire that was flat. "Oh, dear, the engine and the wheels began to move ahead and stop," in a whisper, said, "Come on and party, everyone will all jump on behind!"

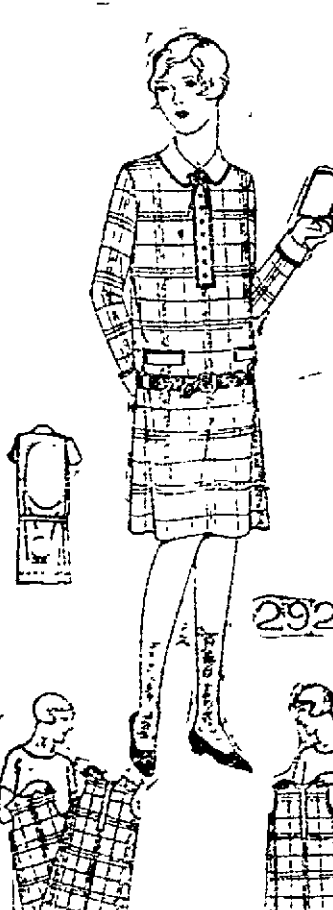

"The driver didn't hear or see," cause they were quiet as could be. Some Tynmites reached the tire back and sat down in a row. The others clung wherever they could while Copsy whispered, "This is good!" And thus we leave their bound form in the next tale you will know.

PARTIES SOCIAL AND CLUB ACTIVITIES MUSIC

Phi Beta To Observe Anniversary

Gamma chapter of Wisconsin, Lawrence college, of Phi Beta Kappa society will celebrate the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the national honorary scholastic fraternity on Monday Dec. 13 with a banquet at the Conway hotel and an open meeting at Peabody hall. The semi-centennial anniversary was held Sunday, Dec. 5, but the local chapter will not celebrate until later because of the absence of Dean Shuler. Mathews of the University of Chicago, at that time. He will speak at the open meeting at 8 o'clock on 'The Scholar in a Commercial Age.' The public has been invited to the lecture.

The society was founded at the college of William and Mary in Virginia, Dec. 5, 1776. "It was at first an undergraduate secret society that differed little from other early college societies. It adopted, however, a Greek motto, and was therefore, the first Greek lettered society. Its silver badge or medal bore all the insignia of the golden key now in use," the history of the fraternity states.

John Marshall, later the chief justice of the Supreme court of the United States was among the members of the original society. Other chapters were founded at Yale in 1780. Harvard, in 1781, Dartmouth college in 1787. There are now 107 chapters and 45,000 living members. The Lawrence chapter of the fraternity whose membership is now based primarily on distinction in scholarship, was the seventy-ninth, being chartered in 1914.

Charter members of Gamma chapter were Miss May E. Carter, Charles W. Twest and Ellsworth W. Wright, all at that time teachers in the college. Foundation members were John H. Marley, A. A. Trever and Samuel Plantz.

Officers of the chapter at the present time are: Prof. E. E. McPherson, president; Fred L. C. Baker, vice president; Prof. J. H. Griffiths, secretary; Miss Mary H. Fretts, treasurer; Prof. A. H. Weston, chairman of the public occasions committee.

Women's Lives

are relieved of a great hygienic handicap in this way. Positive protection—discards like tissue

THERE is now a new way in woman's hygiene. A way scientific and exquisite that ends the uncertainty of old-time "sanitary pads." It is called "KOTEX." Eight in every 10 better-class women have adopted it.

You wear sheer frocks and gowns without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day, every business or social demand unhandicapped.

NO LAUNDRY Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment. Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, it banishes danger of mishaps. Deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL fear of offending.

You obtain it at drug or department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." Women thus ask for it without hesitancy. Costs only a few cents for a package of 12.

KOTEX No laundry—discard like tissue

Said The New Car Owner To A Group of Veteran Car Owners-

"Where's the best place to go, to get the right sort of gasoline, honest motor oil and attention that is of service?"

'twas the dean of all owners who volunteered to answer this pertinent question—a man who had owned a car longer than any other person present. "If you want my advice, which is the result of experience and that's what counts the most—you will buy fuel and lubricating oil for your car, that will agree with it.

"I've settled into the comfortable rut of buying De Bauffer's Tested Gasoline, Guaranteed 100% Pure Pennsylvania Motor Oil and having the car's every need taken care of without ever having to think about it myself. If it's water in the radiator, air in the tires, a change of oil in the crank case, greasing, a cleaning of the windshield—my car gets every attention, for that's De Bauffer Service."

WETS PLANNING TO BLOCK DRY BILLS IN NEXT SESSION

Congress Faces Nearly Score of Measures — Administration Presses Four

Washington—(AP)—The wets in congress are planning their field strategy so as to block any administration drive for more dry laws at the coming short session.

Should this maneuver prove successful they will advance to the counter-attack with some of their own proposals for modification of the Volstead act, but admittedly without any hope of forcing a breach in the dry army.

The wet forces will have some recruits as a result of the recent prohibition referendum in eight states, but the drys still hold the preponderance of numbers in both the house and senate that are certain that they can flatten out any attempts at modification.

Leaders of the wets concede that once the drys can bring their proposals to a vote they can win, but with crowded calendars at a three months' session of congress they insist they have the numbers necessary to talk the administration proposals to death.

NEARLY SCORE MEASURES
As congress assemblies it faces nearly a score of wet and dry measures, with the administration pressing for only four—one to tighten up enforcement of the Volstead act; one to authorize distillation of medicinal liquor; one to create separate bureaus of prohibition and customs in the treasury; and one to place prohibition field agents under the civil service.

The wets will concentrate their attack on the Volstead act, and especially on that provision permitting the issuing of warrants for raids on private dwellings in which it is known liquors are being made for commercial purposes.

Other features of this measure are government supervision over all manufacture of malt cereals and the handling of all denatured alcohol and rum and the searching by the coast guard of American vessels beyond the 12 mile limit where there is reason to believe they are liquor carriers.

WETS URGE EDGE BILL

As a counter proposal the wets will urge the Edge bill to amend the Volstead act so as to make the definition for malt beverages the same as that for ciders and fruit juices—"intoxicating in fact." This would leave to the courts the determination of what constitutes an intoxicating beer.

The drys will fight that proposition to the limit as they insist that enforcement of the Volstead act would be practically impossible with the country flooded with beer and ale containing an alcoholic component far in excess of the one-half of 1 per cent now allowed.

When the wets and drys come to grips Representatives William D. Upshaw, dry Democrat of Georgia, and John Philip Hill, wet Republican from Maryland, will engage in their farewell exchanges on this subject as both retire from congress in March. Upshaw was defeated in his primary campaign, and Hill withdrew to run for the senate.

"THREE MUSKETEERS"

With Representative Hill, Representatives Tinkham, Republican, and Gallivan, Democrat, both of Massachusetts, again will make up what the drys of the house have dubbed the "Three Musketeers." They will have a larger following this session than last, however, as a number of congressmen from the states that voted wet in November—New York, Illinois,

INDIANS PLEAD FOR FOREST-GO SCHOOL

Congressman George J. Schneider, Appleton, will attempt to secure a government appropriation to build a school on the Indian reservation at Wabeno, for Pottawatomie Indian children, following investigations made by Mr. Schneider during a recent hearing at the reservation. Indians expressed much dissatisfaction with the present educational facilities.

Many v. ced objection to schools located at a distance and requested that one be established in their territory. Some of the children were sent more than 100 miles away from home to attend school, it was declared at the hearing. Parents often do not see them during the entire school year as they can not afford the expense of such a long trip, it was stated.

Mr. Schneider believes that money for a school will be granted. The tribesmen voted unanimously for a conveniently located building in Forest-go. One hundred forty-three Pottawatomie children from that territory are enrolled in schools from 40 to 150 miles away from their homes.

SCORE OF APPLICANTS SEEK NATURALIZATION

Several later applications for hearing on first citizenship papers have been filed since it was announced that Naturalization Examiner George N. Danielson would hear 17 supplicants on Dec. 11, it was reported Friday. It is now thought more than a score will be interviewed by the examiner. The session will start at 9 o'clock and continue to noon.

Wisconsin and Montana are expected to become active in the fight.

In the senate the thundering voice of Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, will be clearly heard championing the cause of prohibition. Assisting him will be his colleague, Senator Fess, Republican, and Senator Sheppard, the earnest, but mild-mannered dry Democrat from Texas.

Edge and Edwards of New Jersey, and Bruce of Maryland, again will constitute the shock troops for the wets with Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who recently delved into the political activities of the Anti-Saloon League, standing stoutly against more dry laws and ever ready to bring his reasoning, wit and sarcasm into play in any forensic encounter over the wet and dry issue.

STAGE AND SCREEN

MICKEY NEILAN'S LATEST

A STORY OF STAGE LIFE
Not only is Marshall Neilan credited with having produced and directed Paramount's latest picture, "Everybody's Acting," he also wrote the story from which it was adapted. And it's a fascinating tale which Mr. Neilan has evolved.

The opening scenes take place in a small Canadian town way back in 1908. Behind the scenes in a stock company's theatre, a tragedy is enacted when the leading lady's husband murders her. After the man has been hung for his crime, four members of the troupe and a newspaper reporter adopt the orphaned infant daughter.

Eight years pass. The strange sextet are living in San Francisco and the little girl, adored by all five foster fathers is being trained for the stage.

Again the scene shifts. Doris, eighteen years old, is an ingenue with a San Francisco stock company. Her actor guardians are now members of the same troupe; the reporter, an editor. Doris meets Ted Potter, son of an enormously wealthy woman who objects to her son's association with an actress. How the latter uncovers the unpleasant details of the deaths of Doris's parents and how the ultimate consummation of her romance comes about, provide more than a few thrills and heart throbs.

Betty Bronson is superbly cast as the girl who grew up. Ford Sterling, Henry Walthall, Raymond Hitchcock, Edward Martindel and Stuart Holmes all give interesting characterizations, as do Lawrence Gray and Louise Dresser—the hero and his mother.

Advance reports call "Everybody's Acting" which arrives at the Fischer's Appleton Theatre tomorrow, a picture for any eye on desire. Marshall Neilan's deft intermingling of comedy, romance and drama would seem to show that he has once more hit the bull!

"MORE PAY—LESS WORK"
Cappy Ricks has returned to the screen and brought with him Dad Hinchfield, his old rival in the ship-pling business. Not content with this, Cappy takes his daughter into the office and Dad introduces his son Willie as a junior partner, who becomes the friend of Henry Tweedle, Dad's office manager.

These are the principal characters in Peter B. Kyne's newest story about Cappy Ricks and it has been brought to the screen as "More Pay—Less Work," Fox Films' latest release, which will show at the New Bijou three days starting today.

Albert Gran plays Cappy Ricks and E. J. Ratcliffe is Dad Hinchfield. "Cappy's" business rival, Charles "Buddy" Rogers has the part of Willie Hinchfield and Mary Brian the role of Betty Ricks. Otto Hoffman as Henry Tweedle, Dad's office manager, and Charles Conklin as the janitor, complete the cast.

"More Pay—Less Work" is a story about a merger of Cappy's Blue Star and Dad's Banner Navigation Companies, which falls because the old rivals quarrel over whose name shall come first in the films designation. Then Betty and Willie step in and start a romance that leads to the altar and the amalgamation of the two families.

Kyne has put more than his usual amount of humor into this story and the actors and given the screen another classic in comedy drama and romance of business.

When Is A Safe Not A Safe?

The answer is, "Frequently!" All over the country, according to the papers, burglars are drilling or blasting or burning their way into so-called burglar-proof safes.

Even if they don't find much cash or securities they seldom fail to wreck the safes and mess up a lot of office furniture. All of which costs the owners a pretty penny to repair or replace.

Why run the risk of having such a loss when, for a nominal sum, you can obtain a Safe Burglary Policy, which will not only pay you for whatever cash and other articles of value that may be stolen from your safe, but will also reimburse you for whatever damage is done to your property by the burglars?

Let me give you full information about this protection.

ILLINOIS COLLEGES SEEK ADMITTANCE TO W-I LEAGUE

Wheaton, North Central
Ask To Enter New Loop;
Beloit Also May Return

Grid Schedules for 1927 Approved and Carroll Awarded 1926 Banner

Two more Illinois colleges, Wheaton and North Central at Naperville, formerly Northwestern, have applied for membership in the Wisconsin-Illinois collegiate conference, which completed its first football season this fall. Present members are Lawrence, Carroll, Ripon and Northwestern in Wisconsin and Lake Forest in Illinois. The matter of the entry of the schools was referred to a faculty committee of which Prof. F. J. Farley of Lawrence is a member at the conference meeting held in Milwaukee Saturday. The committee will pass on the eligibility standards of the schools and file a report at the spring meeting when action will be taken on the matter.

Next year's grid schedules for the conference were approved at the Saturday session, and these showed several schools will go out of their class next fall. Lawrence plays Marquette, Ripon meets Colorado A&C and Lake Forest battles Michigan State. The big games at Madison having cut heavily into the crowds this year, Coach Doehling of Ripon has called two Friday games next fall before important Badger home struggles, Dr. Elias Evans, Ripon president, has approved a plan to close classes in the afternoon of such games and make up the lost time Saturday mornings.

George Christoph, Blue acting athletic director, announced that three teams are bidding for the open date on Oct. 15, Northwestern, Coe and Carleton, but no decision had been made by Lawrence authorities as to who would get it. The Nov. 19 date probably will remain open, he said.

GOLD MAY RETURN
Beloit, a member of the conference until two years ago, did not have a representative at the meeting although it is understood the Gold wants to return. Tommy Mills, who led the fight to break away from the old Little Five conference after 18 years, has left to help Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, and Roy Bohler, the new athletic director and coach, favors returning.

Two-year contracts closed by Mills before he left, however, complete Beloit's schedule for next season. If Bohler does return which will give him games with Lake Forest, Northwestern and Carroll—he plays Ripon and Lawrence now as members of the Midwest conference—he will have to wait until next year.

Saturday's meeting awarded the next outdoor track meet to Lake Forest, the youngest member in the conference, and selected May 21 as the date. Lake Forest came into the conference when Beloit withdrew.

CARROLL GETS GRID TITLE
The meeting also officially awarded Carroll college the 1926 football championship. Norris Armstrong has now given the Orange two teams that finished first and two that ranked second. His basketball teams have finished the same way. Lawrence also had a perfect percentage, but had two ties, to one for the Orange.

Faculty representatives discussed raising the eligibility standards. They propose to have the athletes win a certain number of honor points in their studies in addition to passing in 12 hours work.

Hilltop Harriers Meet
Lawrence Here On May 7

Milwaukee—(AP)—Heavy work lies ahead of the Marquette track team as the school's most prominent athletes prepare to meet the Hilltop Harriers of Lawrence on May 7. A few of Coach Jennings' track performers already are working out several times a week on the campus track, but the squad will not get its official start until immediately after the Christmas holidays. Marquette officials will compete in the Central Intercollegiate conference.

The Hilltop will be represented by a veteran squad, augmented by four or five recruits from last year's fast-stepping freshman team.

Notre Dame, Stanford and Wisconsin basketball teams of the Appleton high school gymnasium class league, took the lead in the race as the result of the first games played Saturday morning at the school gym. Two of the games were close with three points being the greatest margin.

Coach Joseph Shields and Greenz acted as referees. In the Notre Dame-Navy battle, which ended 16-11 for the Irish, Pfeiffer, center of the winners, starred for 15 of his squad's 22 points. This was high score of the morning. Hanson and Ferron also played well for the winners and Melige and Robert starred for the losers.

When Wisconsin whipped Alabama, 22-15, Heller was the outstanding star with six ringers and four free-throwers for 15 of his squad's 22 points. This was high score of the morning. Hanson and Ferron also played well for the winners and Melige and Robert starred for the losers.

OSHKOSH NORMALS
ADOPT FROSH RULE

Student Must Have Attended School for One Full Year to Be Eligible

Oshkosh—A rigid freshman rule in athletics was unanimously voted on Friday by the athletic committee of Oshkosh State Normal school and this action is believed to be the first taken by any teachers' college in the country to declare freshmen from its athletic teams. To become eligible under the new ruling for any athletic team a student must attend Oshkosh or some other college for one school year and receive passing grades in a full program of work.

"This is an important step in the history of teacher training," stated President H. A. Brown. "It conduces immediately to high standards of scholarship among freshmen. This ruling will doubtless handicap our athletics for a time, but it is just another step in setting unusually high scholastic standards equal to those of the very best educational institutions."

"It is the same policy which last year brought about the elimination here at Oshkosh of more than 100 students through failure to maintain sufficiently high scholastic standards in their studies."

THREE LEADERS HOLD PLACES IN AMERICAN
Now that Tris Speaker has retired as manager of the Cleveland Indians, only three members of the old guard remain.

Connie Mack, Stanley Harris and Miller Huggins still hold the fort and are certain to continue in a managerial capacity.

Not in the history of the major leagues has there ever been so many changes made in team leaders as in 1926.

WEST BAY EXPECTS GOOD CAGE SEASON

Three Vets Gone, but Herber, Quinn Will form Strong Nucleus

Green Bay—Now that basketball will occupy the center of interest at West High, "Murphy" White has been training his guns on the likely looking candidates, and he expects to shoot five men on the cage floor who will more than keep up the good work of the Purple Panthers. When the West High mentor cast his optics over the "timber" he saw that Hansen, Osmond forwards, and Radick guard would not be ready to take their usual positions. White will also have to hang out the help wanted shingle for a couple reserves: Gass, Cole forwards, Bultman center, and Rasmussen have collected their diplomas.

Hansen, the bespectacled leader led the West Siders through a fairly successful season, while the half pint Osmond was the spark plug in the Purple machine. He was West's main scoring threat. Radick always made it rough going for the opposing forwards who tampered in his territory, and his ability to get the ball hot off the back board more than once broke up scoring attempts.

Even though sheepskins were passed out to this large number, White has hopes that his cagers will deliver the goods. Quinn will hold down the center post. Herber, co-captain, will be the star. With his speed and cunning he should be a fixture at guard. At the other guard post it is a toss up between Hussin, Borchers, Whitney, and Flayome. White has not a veteran forward returning. From the second team he will have Crabbe, Mickelson, Adams, Wahl, and Huth to pick from. White will not put his squad to work until Dec. 15.

CONTRACTS OF TWO
COACHES EXPIRED

Norris Armstrong, Mark Catlin Complete Contracts; Both May Return

Contracts of two of the leading mentors of the Wisconsin-Illinois Intercollegiate conference, terminate this year and rumors are rife as to whether they will return. The three-year contract of Norris Armstrong, who led Carroll to the loop title, and that of Mark Catlin, whose 1926 squad also was undefeated in the conference, come to an end. Coach Armstrong refused to comment on whether he would return when asked at the annual fall conference meeting at Milwaukee Saturday, but said he would confer with President W. A. Gandel on the proposition in the next few weeks, meanwhile continuing with his usual duties.

George Christoph, Lawrence athletic director, said at Milwaukee that the situation at the local school is entirely in Coach Catlin's hands, that the school wants him to return. Rumors from the college state that the local attorney will be asked to return as a full-time coach, however, and it is not known whether this is favorable to him with his law practice and elderman duties to care for.

Carl Doehling will stick to Ripon. Paul Eichman at Northwestern, where the entire first squad of this year returns. Brown at Lake Forest and Roy Bohler at Beloit.

QUESTIONABLE TITLE

MICKY WALKER

When Referee Yanger awarded Mickey Walker a decision over Tiger Flowers in Chicago last week, causing the middleweight crown to change hands, he also caused a dispute that has not yet been settled. Critics at the ringside and fans in general believed that at the very last Walker was entitled to a draw while many believe he had the best of the going. Yanger discounted Tiger's chances because of alleged illegal boxing, he said later, but he failed to disqualify the Negro, rather than giving a decision against him at the end. He is on the carpet before the Illinois fight commission this week.

Irish Game Setup Not Upset-Carnegie Coach

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
Chicago—Judge Walter P. Steffen, who doubles in brass as a superior court justice here, and as long-distance coach of Carnegie Tech's football squad in Pittsburgh, applied some Blackstone to his tactics when his team went up against Knute Rockne's Notre Dame horsemen.

Football history for 1926 records the upset that resulted. The South Benders went down to a 19 to 0 defeat, the first lacing they had suffered during the season, and Steffen came back to Chicago to order full speed ahead on his justice mail.

For 13 years the judge has been traveling back and forth between Chicago and Pittsburgh to chaperone the embryo engineers at Carnegie. Every week-end during the season, with his little worn brown bag, he has been at the depot waiting for the evening rattler to pull out.

And every summer he has spent the coolest weeks of his vacation at the school, hoping, teaching, waiting.

This year his dreams, his fondest wishes, came true. Obscure little Carnegie took the horsemen of Knute Rockne and gave them the goose-egg trimming of their lives, the first defeat of the season.

All the years of traveling back and forth vanished from Judge Steffen's memory. He came home elated. At last his efforts had been rewarded.

Meanwhile, between halting forward passes by lawyers seeking defeat before his court, he smiled with satisfaction over what had happened just a few days before in the steel city where his school had trampled the lions of the gridiron.

"They said it was an upset of the season," Judge Steffen remarked, referring to the Notre Dame game. "But that isn't quite the word. Notre Dame was just a setup for Carnegie. We licked their secondary team and then when they threw in the Rockne shock troops we scored two touchdowns within a very few moments."

"It was all man power and not luck or coincidence. Ours was the better team. We had to win. That is all that could have happened."

Back in 1908 when he was a grid star with the University of Chicago eleven, Judge Steffen was picked by Walter Camp as All-American back of the year. He was the fourth western man ever so honored up to that time.

From 1909 to 1911 he served as assistant coach at Chicago under A. A. Stagg, while attending the university law school, and in 1912 was asked to come to Pittsburgh under the week-end traveling arrangement to coach Carnegie Tech.

He has been at it ever since, though more than once he wanted to give up the job because of the traveling involved and the inconvenience. It worked on both his family and profession.

But football has been his hobby. He has ridden it hard and calls it his "mental cocktail." He says it revives him mentally and physically as no other diversion. And his spare hours are spent evolving plays on paper with imaginary players and strategic ploys.

The judge is married and 40. He has six children, three boys and three girls. These constitute his own football squad and many a merry romp the family have at home of evenings on the living room floor, which is turned into a make-believe gridiron.

Kimberly—Everything is set at Kimberly Clubhouse for the basketball season's greatest attraction, Olson's Terrible Swedes, who will oppose the K. C. Athletics 1926 state amateur and northern Wisconsin pro champs. The Swedes were defeated in their first game in their invasion of Wisconsin by the Beloit Fairies who after training the traveling quint the first half turned around and handed the visitors a 26 to 42 trimming. One of the biggest crowds of the year is expected for this attraction which is featured by the clever backhand passing of C. M. Olson, manager of the visiting quint. The new balcony in the clubhouse will be ready to hold its first crowd so that there will be accommodations for everyone. The front row of seats in the balcony will be reserved for the game so that those who come late can be assured of a good seat. The starting lineup for the visitors will be Olson and Stewart at forwards, Campbell at center with Martney and Nels at guards. Martney is the man who scored nineteen points against the Fairies from a guard position. For Kimberly Koll and Boettcher will start at forwards and Williams at center while Schuurle and Cooke will work at the guards. LaRue, Pope, DuChane, Courchane and Frassetto will be in reserve. This is the last game for Kimberly before opening up the home state league schedule on Friday, against Port Washington.

BLUES FACE RIPON
DURING FEBRUARY

Davey Jones Only Regular Lost from Strong 1925-26 Red Cage Crew

Ripon—(AP)—The basketball schedule for Ripon college was announced by Coach Carl Doehling, athletic director. Several tentative games may be added later. The list follows:
Jan. 7—Knox at Galesburg, Ill.
Jan. 14—Lake Forest at Ripon; Jan. 21—Hamline university of St. Paul, at Ripon; Jan. 28—Beloit at Ripon; Feb. 2—Lake Forest at Lake Forest, Ill.; Feb. 7—Lawrence at Ripon; Feb. 11—Carroll at Waukesha; Feb. 16—Beloit at Beloit; Feb. 18—Carroll at Ripon; Feb. 25—Lawrence at Appleton.

Bob Kolf, former Oshkosh Normal coach, will take complete charge of basketball, and has already called out a large squad of prospects for training. Arthur Hauser, Monroe, a four year letterman, will captain the quintet this year. Other stars are William Allen, Edna Nellville; Arthur Lohr, Wausau; Arno Bahrs, Rice Lake; Duncan Reid, Endeavor; and Harold Hamley, Newton Center, Mass.

With the exception of David Jones, who is coaching basketball at Racine High school this year, last year's varsity squad is intact. Considering that Ripon tied for third in the mid-west conference, prospects for a stellar season loom up for Ripon.

IRISH PASSES BEAT
TROJANS AT FINISH

Los Angeles—Coming from behind with a brilliant finish, the fighting Irishmen from Notre Dame triumphed over a stubborn Southern California eleven in the inter-sectional clash of the year here Saturday afternoon 12 to 12.

A spectacular passing attack which the Knute Rockne warriors turned loose in the final minutes of play turned the tide for the invaders from the east.

The Irish comeback was a spectacular anti-climax to a brilliant rejuvenated offensive which the Trojans uncorked in the same final period and which gave Southern California their second touchdown and the lead. The Trojans held their advantage of one touchdown, which Don Williams, substitute Trojan quarterback, put over in a blaze of glory for less than five minutes.

The ends selected on this team have been the same two which have been on all of the other honorary selections. Quinn of West Green Bay, undoubtedly the greatest receiver who has graced the gridiron in high school circles in this part of the state in many years is named captain of the team. As leader of the undefeated West High team he has shown real ability as a captain. At carrying the ball on end around plays he has gained much ground for his team. He is the highest point scorer in the Valley. Some of the experts seem to think that he lacks defensive ability but in the writer's opinion this is not so. The primary duty of an end is to keep the plays on the inside of him and this Quinn has done all season except once. A great many plays perhaps have gone between Quinn and the tackle but these have not by any means been the fault of the lanky end. At the other wing we have Kresky of Marinette. Big and powerful Kresky makes an ideal end. His four years of experience makes him invaluable to the team and this season has been one of his best on the gridiron. He is especially effective on the defense but although not an un-

Getschow Placed on Seconds; Lutz, Kunitz, Pfeifferle on Thirds

Two Appleton high school gridriders, unanimously chosen on the first all-conference squad picked by Green Bay sport scribes and published Saturday in the Green Bay Press-Gazette, Liethen was placed at guard on the squad and Johnston at fullback. Getschow is placed on the second squad, while Kunitz, Lutz and Pfeifferle are on the third team with the Orange leader as captain.

Marinette and West High have three men on the first squad with East having two. Oshkosh, with Stewart, gains the remaining place. While Sheboygan has picked no team, a suggestion made by the sport scribes of that city as to a change in the all-conference backfields chosen so far is meeting with great hilarity throughout the valley from men who have seen the teams in action.

Sheboygan suggests replacing Johnston at fullback with Hanson of Fond du Lac to give the squad a pony backfield. Hanson played an especially strong game against Sheboygan, but no man in the conference is as good a rear-wall man as the Orange star and to leave him off the first squad would be like picking an All-American team without Benny Friedman. As to a pony backfield, Johnston is a eleven second in spite of his weight man and any back in the conference will have to step to beat him in a sprint. Here's Green Bay's dope:

Green Bay—Starting in the middle of the line we find that there were four centers who played great ball all season. In fact we believe that these four players are about the four best linemen in the Valley Conference and could make found in any part of the line in which they were placed. Liethen of Appleton is credited with outplaying both Johnson of West and Becker of East and Johnson outplayed Becker in the annual East-West game while Becker more than held his own against Uecker of Marinette. To make this a really strong team and in order to give preference to individual ability rather than ability in certain positions we have placed W. Gr. B. at the pivot post and Johnson and Liethen at the guards and have given Uecker the pivot position on the second team. Becker has been one of the mainstays in his teams line and the same is true of Johnson and of Liethen. All are big and powerful splendid tacklers and blockers and would make as strong a center as any team in the Valley could field.

Every one is of college calibre and should make the heart of any coach glad to see them report for football practice next September when their high school days are over. In picking the tackles we find that one berth unquestionably goes to Kohlman of Marinette who has been picked on every All-Conference team selected in the Valley newspaper. He is one of the best tackles developed in the Valley since the organization of the conference and all season long his work has done much to contribute to the success of the Marinette team. At the other tackle Charley Steele of East Green Bay is placed. This had played splendidly all season although he has been handicapped by the injury to his ankle. He knows the ins and outs of playing the position and should make a good running mate to Kohlman. Getschow of Appleton was another strong tackle but we think he ranks slightly below Steele.

The ends selected on this team have been the same two which have been on all of the other honorary selections. Quinn of West Green Bay, undoubtedly the greatest receiver who has graced the gridiron in high school circles in this part of the state in many years is named captain of the team. BUD GORMAN GIVEN BOUT WITH DELANEY
New York—(AP)—Jack Delaney, light heavyweight champion has been matched by Humbert Fugazy to meet Bud Gorman, Kenosha, Wis., in a ten round match in Jersey City for the New York American Christmas fund. Dec. 20, Delaney's title will not be at stake except in event of a knockout, owing to the New Jersey law against decisions.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
ERIC WATERS, rebellious senior, and DR. PETER DORN, assistant professor, are rivals for the favor of JUDITH MARTIN, young university teacher.

DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN disapproves of Judith's radical friends and accuses Eric of dealing with "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, in poison liquor. Judith defends him.

MYRA ALDRICH is fond of Judith, but jealous of Eric's attentions to her.

Judith learns of a secret love affair of Dean Brown's wife and befriends her, believing the dean quite heartless.

"Kitty" Shea tries to blackmail Mrs. Brown, and also threatens to expose the fact that Judith and Eric dined at a roadhouse the night it was raided. Eric promises Judith to "shut Shea up."

When Judith is staying in Myra's sorority house alone for the Christmas holidays, Shea tries to force an entrance and she frightens him away by shooting in the air.

Eric returns unexpectedly on Christmas day from his home town, with a bruised eye.

When Judith is talking with EVE GERHART, a widow, at Eric's fraternity house, one evening after the January term opens Myra sends word that there is a letter for Judith from Dean Brown, at the boarding house.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXI

"For me" asked Judith, frowning. "Yes," said Eric. "Myra thought you might want to come home and read it."

Eve was smiling meaningfully at Judith. "Well," she said, "excuse me. I'm going after a roasted chestnut."

Judith turned to Eric. "What does that mean?"

"He shook his head. 'No telling. Why worry?' After dinner I'll walk over with you."

Judith tossed her head. "All right."

The note was from the dean's secretary. It requested Judith's presence at his office the following day.

Eric read it over her shoulder. When they had finished, he read it again. "When did you last see Shea, Judith?"

"Because I believe the dean means to question you about him. You remember that Shea once called you by your first name in front of Dean and Mrs. Brown."

Judith nodded.

"Well," said Eric, "they can't find Shea. I was called in myself yesterday and questioned as to his whereabouts. Of course they won't find him. Shea has too many pipelines around town, not to know that they're after him. He'll just lie low in Middleburg till this blows over."

From his vantage point, behind the massive desk in his sanctum, Dean Brown fixed Judith with a solemn gaze as she entered. His pudgy hands were outspread on the top of the desk, like statistics caught too far inland when the tide went out.

"Please be seated, Miss Martin."

When she had taken the chair of inquisition, facing him, he took off his glasses and laid them on the desk. "I hope, Miss Martin, that any feeling of hostility which you may have held toward me has by this time disappeared. I trust you realize that we are both in duty bound to work only for the good of the university and the immortal souls entrusted to our guidance."

Judith smiled, and the dean's brows drew together.

"I was only thinking that I was employed to teach people Latin, not about right and wrong," she said.

The dean ignored the implication. "In the great reform which we are inaugurating in the university, our first step is to stamp out the liquor evil. That is where I hope you can help us."

Judith stood up. "You are insulting," she said. "I have no connection with liquor. I never buy, sell nor drink it." She made a movement toward the door, but the dean raised his hand.

"Pray do not be hasty," he said. "I only meant that you might be able to give us some information about this man Shea, who is the source of the liquor drunk here. We have a warrant for his arrest."

Judith turned toward him. "I do not know anything about Shea, Dean Brown. I met him casually once at a picnic, but there the acquaintance ended."

"Hm-m," mused the dean. "He began to call you Judith rather early, didn't he?"

"He called me that deliberately, to embarrass me," flashed Judith. "If this is all, I think I will go."

"Just a moment," said the dean. "I am convinced that young Waters knows where Shea is hiding. You—" cried. "Am I to live under a pall all my life, because I chose this sorry job of teaching?"

The professor looked baffled. Judith turned to him. "You don't believe that I know where Shea is do you?"

He shook his head, as if horror-struck. "Of course not. But the dean will never believe you are innocent so long as you cleave to that young booby-hick, Waters."

The color deepened in Judith's face. "It's no one's business whom I cleave to, so long as I conduct myself as I should. I KNOW Eric hasn't the information they want. I also know that he has never bootlegged, and I CAN'T desert him now. Why, he believes in me!"

Dr. Dorn took her hand timidly. "There are others who believe in you, too, Judith, and who suffer when you impel that belief."

Judith's eyes looked into his and fled from them. She pulled her hand away. "If you'd only let me alone all of you!" she exclaimed. "There's nothing you can do. We don't think in the same language, Dr. Dorn."

He drew back, sadly. "I'm afraid we don't. But I'm sorry. I wish I could help you."

Judith's eyes were filling with tears. Turning abruptly, she walked away from him down the hall.

On the porch of the building Myra and Will Wetherell were waiting for her.

Wetherell was wearing the memorable green riding suit. "You see us just returning from play rehearsal, Judge," he apologized. "I always wear these breeches for the 'Blood and Sand' rehearsals. They make it so much easier to wallow around on the floor in the scene where I make the passionate love to Donato Sol."

Judith laughed in spite of her trouble. "Don't let them make you self-conscious about your breeches. Will. Thank God, there are a few people left who live as their own judgement dictates. Don't ever apologize for anything again. Let's be done with apologies!"

Myra was looking at her curiously. "You sound a little bit insane, Judith, like Hamlet in the 'Get thee to a nunnery' speech. What's happened to you?"

Judith only smiled. "I'm just learning what schoolteaching means that's all. And I think a schoolteacher might envy a galley slave."

Wetherell looked at her. "You and Eric are both a little crazy these days," he said. "He's been nutty ever since he came back on Christmas day, with that ugly bruise on his head."

Myra's mouth opened. "Christmas day? Did Eric come back then?"

"Sure thing," replied Wetherell. "Myra turned to Judith. 'You didn't tell me, and he didn't tell me.' She was silent a moment. 'And you used my sorority house to entertain him! Tia-tot!'

Judith was very white. "Listen, Myra," she said, "you'd better walk away quite fast now. I've had about all I can stand today. And I'm just a little afraid I might slap you!"

Wetherell shot a frightened glance at Judith's desperate face, and seizing Myra by the arm, walked her rapidly away.

Judith went down into the sunken garden by the sundial and sat on a stone bench. In fifteen minutes, the two clock bell rang, and she picked up the Horace textbook that lay beside her and started wearily for the building again.

Most of the class had assembled when she entered the room, but she saw that Eric had not come in.

A little group by the window, turned and eyed her, then put heads together again. She could hear a whispered word here and there.

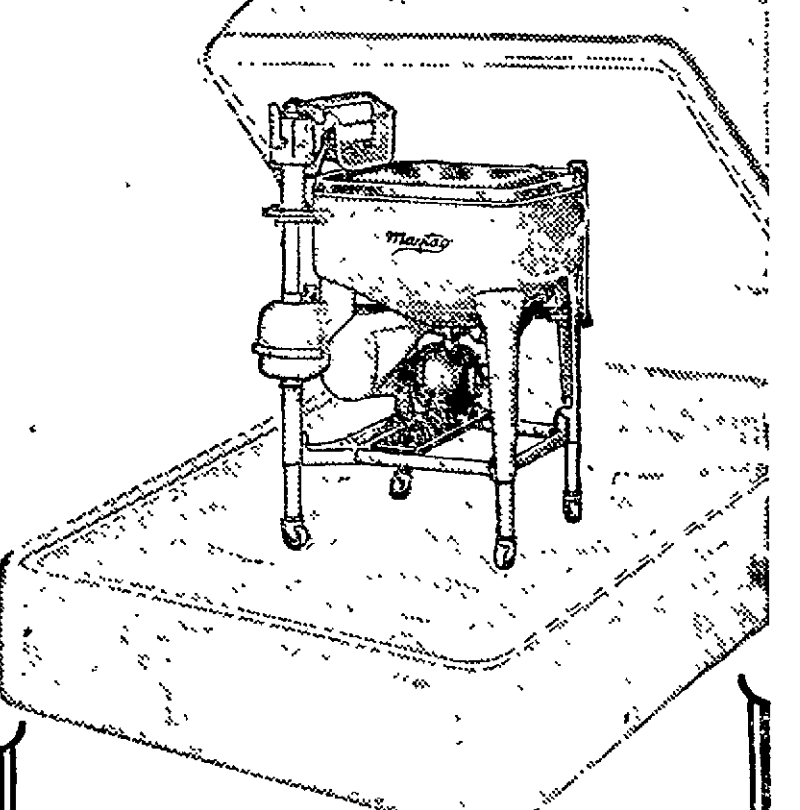

Soon, she began to listen with desperate eagerness. "All smashed up—dead, some time," she heard the spectacled boy say to the shuddering Misses Reasey. "Car full of empty jugs and bottles—letters."

(To Be Continued)

Shea is dead, and Judith can't help wondering about Eric's bruised eye and his talk of making Shea shut up.

ANNA CHRISTIE
A Fun Shop Drama of the Surging
Sea
(In Three Acts)
By Jerome E. Merrill

Act 1
(Anna Christie is lying in bed in the ship's cabin. The voice of her father, the Captain, and that of a Sailor drift
in through a porthole.)
Captain: "Lift up the top sheet and spanker!"
Sailor: "Aye, aye, sir."

Anna (jumping out of bed and seizing a pistol): "If anybody dares to lay a hand on me I'll shoot!"
Act 2

(The deck of the ship. Two sailors talking.)
First Sailor: "The chicken's escaped."
Second Sailor: "You mean Anna?"
First Sailor: "Yes."
Second Sailor: "You should have put her in the hold and locked the doors."

Dear Mr. Judell:
My daughter has been treating her boy friend to my private stock. I hate to censure her, but if you could manage to write a limerick on the subject I think it would do the work.
—Byron T. Weller.

Dear Mr. Weller: Always glad to oblige. How's this—
There was a young woman named
Weller
Who petted her beaux in the cellar;
Before long, her Pops
Didn't have any schupps
And she didn't have any feller!

Dear M. F. J.:
My girl friend is named Louise
Blake. Since she got a boy friend named Jacob Eddy he's all she can talk about. Maybe it's because he's her first fellow. But anyhow, will you write a limerick I can show her?

Dear E. O. T.: Will it give a looking talk-
First Sailor: "The chicken's escaped."
Second Sailor: "You mean Anna?"
First Sailor: "Yes."
Second Sailor: "You should have put her in the hold and locked the

doors."

CAGE SQUADS AGAIN
DEFEAT OPPONENTS

City Wins from Shiocton, 24 to 9; Highs Beat Manawa, 15 to 12

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—The Clintonville city team defeated the Shiocton city team in a fast, clean game at the local armory Tuesday evening. The experience and team work of Coach Roach's men was a large factor in the victory over the visitors. Only two fouls were called in the game. Coach Vincenten of the Shiocton team was handicapped by having only six men with him and these men could not hold out against the constant stream of fresh players which Coach Roach sent and the score was 4 to 2 in their favor at the quarter. A 6 to 6 tie stood at the half. After a shift of men at the half the score mounted to 13 to 6 at the third quarter in favor of Clintonville. The fourth quarter was a hard drag on the Shiocton player, but they put in a field goal and a free shot during that period. The final score was 24 to 9. "Chet" Bentzler was the star for Clintonville in scoring and floor work. He was in the game less than a half and scored six field goals. E. Spaulding played stellar ball for the losers and caged three field goals.

The lineup was as follows:
Clintonville Shiocton
M. Schauder L. F. H. Booth
C. Bentzler
E. Schmor R. F. V. Booth
Fisher
C. Sievers
R. Carter C. E. Spaulding
C. Sievers C. E. Spaulding
A. Schmor
A. Mecht R. G. A. Sommerfeld
B. Bentzler
Bohman L. G. T. Morse
M. Jesse Drier

Next Tuesday evening the Clintonville city team will play a regular schedule game with the fast Marion city squad on the local floor.

HIGH BEAT MANAWA

Coach Quinn took his basketball squad to Manawa on Tuesday evening, where they measured out defeat to the Manawa high school team in a hard fought game. It took all of the speed and skill the local boys possessed to overcome Manawa's 10-4 lead in the third quarter and came through with a 15-12 victory. Manawa has a strong team this year, and the local boys can cite a victory over that team with pride. The Manawa five started out fast and put the score 4-0 in their favor at the quarter. The Clintonville plunkers were one point behind at the half. Manawa again led in a nice lead of 6 points at the third quarter. In the last quarter Walter Mantin came to the front and put in a couple of field goals and Walter Sievers did the same. Don Below scored a field goal and Capt. Kruse made a free throw in the last minutes to insure victory. Walter Sievers and Walter Mantin have the distinction of being stars of the game as well as for their own team. Grab of Manawa was their best bet, and he scored three field goals. The winning of this Manawa game gives Clintonville four successive victories over strong teams.

The lineup was as follows:
Clintonville Manawa
W. Mantin L. F. Grab
Merrill L. F. Kopp, Nolan
Kruse (c) C. Patrickus

Coach Quinn's. Undeclared
Five Win from Strong Visiting Squad

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—The Clintonville high school basketball five easily defeated the strong Hortonville team on the local gymnasium floor Friday evening, 24 to 8. The game was the fastest yet played on the home floor. As often as Hortonville swept down the floor the powerful defense of Coach Quinn's undefeated huskies stopped the rush. Donald Below, right guard of the winning crew, started the scoring with a field goal in the first seconds of play. At the quarter the score was 5 to 2 while it mounted to 11-4 at the half, and 20 to 5 during the third quarter. The visitors found it impossible either to penetrate the defense of the Quinn aggregation or to stop the onrush of the Orangemen. Clintonville was fortunate to have George Mantin, a veteran of two years' experience in the lineup. The combination of the Mantin brothers, George and Walter, made an effective obstacle in the path of the Hortonville redmen.

Mace, captain and right guard, starred in floor work for Hortonville, but Hellerhoff, center, led scoring with two field goals. Capt. Walter Kruse led the scoring by a wide margin for the Clintonville five, making five field goals. On several occasions he dribbled through the entire opposing squad and scored field goals. Don Below scored five points, Walter Sievers four, George Mantin three, and his brother Walter, two points.

The lineup was as follows:
Clintonville Hortonville
W. Mantin R. F. V. Maahs
G. Mantin L. F. Sands, Rideout

100 STUDENTS IN CAST OF OPERETTA BY HIGH SCHOOL

Three Act Musical Play Will Be Given at Appleton Theater Tonight

A cast of 100 students and a 20 piece orchestra will appear in "The Belle of Barcelona", three act operetta, by Charles Ross Chaney, to be presented by Appleton high school at Fischers Appleton theatre Monday evening. Nine soloists, several speaking roles, and a chorus of United States marines, Spanish students and dancing girls will be included.

Mr. Margaret Ickle, soprano, and Mark Catlin Jr., tenor, will play the leading parts of Margarita and Lluet. Wright, in the romantic plot of the comedy. Another attractive role is played by the dashing tenebore, Emilio, played by Carl Nelson, and Mercedes, the sister of Margarita, by Miss Evelyn Krell. Comedy roles will be taken by Robert Matz as Pat Malone of the U. S. A., and Martha Matilda Avers the prim English governess, taken by Miss Donna Herrmann.

Direction of the operetta has been in charge by Ruth McKennan, dramatic instructor at the school, and Carl McKee, director of music. Costumes will be supplied by the Dave Miller Costume shop of Milwaukee, and Mr. Miller will manage the costumes throughout the play.

The cast of the play was selected several weeks ago and has held several rehearsals a week since that time. Chorus numbers were started by Mr. McKee shortly after the opening of the fall term at the school.

SLIPPERY HILL KEEPS MOTORISTS GUESSING

Shows of the weekend caused motorists who traveled up the S. Oneida hill Monday plenty of trouble. Several cars were stopped at various distances up the hill with the rear wheels spinning and were forced to back part way down or turn sideways to continue their climb. Some of them had to make the attempt several times. One car, stopping on its upward climb, almost backed into a heavy coal truck. It stopped the truck, forcing it to back down farther to get a new start, and held up a two or three cars on the hill.

SOX WITHOUT COLLINS LESS EFFICIENT CLUB

Chicago—What are the chances of the White Sox under the leadership of Ray Schalk? Chicago fans already are pondering that question. The consensus is that it is not going to be an easy job.

The showing of the White Sox during the last two seasons has stressed the importance of having Collins and Schalk in the lineup. With the passing of Collins, the club loses its balance wheel.

With Eddie Collins playing second base, the club is 25 per cent more efficient than it was on the bench. No one will miss him more than Schalk.

In addition, the possibility of Schalk playing more than half the season is rather doubtful.

Looks as if the new manager would have his troubles finishing in the first division.

YOST SQUAD'S DEFENSE FAR BELOW '25 RECORD

Ann Arbor, Mich., Michigan through league but one game during the 1926 football season, didn't come anywhere near beating the fine defensive record the 1925 eleven did. The '25 team also dropped just a single fray.

In 1925 only three points were counted on the Tost machine. Northwestern got them in that famous mud battle. They were enough to send the Wolverine to defeat, however. This year Michigan's opponents ran up 138 points in eight contests. Of these Ohio State scored the most—16. Then came Navy with 10, Minnesota six and Oklahoma Aggies and Michigan State with three apiece. In 1925 Michigan blanked seven foes. This year only three were whitewashed—Minnesota (first game), Illinois and Wisconsin.

BOY ASSEMBLYMAN THINKS STATE TAX LAWS NEED CHANGE

Would Have Communities
Retain More of Money They Collect

Washburn, Wis.—(AP)—The revision of tax laws as advocated by the Wisconsin League of Municipalities will be favored in the coming legislature by Paul Ungrodt, assemblyman from Bayfield county, and one of the youngest representatives to be present at the coming session.

"It is my belief," stated Mr. Ungrodt here, "that taxes collected by the state treasurer are not fairly divided between the state and the local taxed districts. More of the funds taken from our cities and villages through some form of state tax should be returned to the district from which they come thereby lessening the burden on local real estate and personal property. I oppose the state's policy of trying to eliminate entirely the levy of a direct tax."

"I believe that there must be some revision made with regard to schools so that children in poorer communities will have a chance to receive the same sort of education as do the children in the wealthier community centers. Our state superintendent of schools offers a plan the merits of which I am now studying."

"I shall support such measures for conservation and reforestation as will preserve the present existing evils, especially as they appear in the northern part of the state. I believe that this issue along with the taxation issue will probably consume the major portion of the legislature's time during the coming session."

"In conclusion I might add that it is my intention to go to the legislature for the purpose of supporting legislation which I believe will profit the majority of our citizens and to oppose that which will not regardless of what party or of what faction of a party proposes it. I do not discount the value of parties, but I believe legislation should be unquestionably for the interest of Wisconsin citizens rather than political parties."

QUARTET PLEAS AT M. E. VESPER SERVICE

One of the finest numbers of the weekly vesper services at First Methodist church was given Sunday afternoon by the Valley Male quartet. More than 600 persons attended the services. Johnson of Appleton, second bass.

The pitch and intonation and the pleasing blending of the voices of the group was good and surpasses that of many professional singers. For an amateur local quartet, according to one teacher of music from Lawrence Conservatory of Music, the program was unusually good and the young men will probably become well known throughout the state in time.

"Deep River" by Burleigh was an especially appealing number and "When You and I were Young, Maggie," with solos parts by George Nixon, was a favorite. BADGER DELEGATES IN CONGRESS WON'T FOLLOW YOUNG BOB

Veteran Congressmen Show
No Inclination to Trail
Youthful Senator

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The solidarity that marked the course of the Wisconsin progressive Republican members of Congress is at an end. It was definitely learned here.

At least five and possibly six members of the delegation will chart their own course and will accept no leadership from the Senate as they accepted the senate leadership of the late Robert M. LaFollette, Sr.

The four men who are expected to be closest to Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., and Senator-elect John J. Blaine are Congressman Joseph D. Besk, George J. Schneider, Hubert H. Peavey, and Congressman-elect Kadenz.

One member of the delegation, who followed the leadership of the late Senator LaFollette, is definitely out with the young Senator LaFollette and Senator-elect Blaine, although he is on the best of terms with Senator LaFollette, Jr.

A third member of the delegation, reported ready to break with the LaFollette Blaine wing.

At least eight of the present Wisconsin Congressmen are reported to be ready to support Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., for reelection, two years hence. At least seven of them will be on terms of cordiality with Senator-elect Blaine.

But, according to reports here today, not in excess of five members out of the ten will accept the leadership of your LaFollette or Governor Blaine and none of them will feel the same relationship to either Senator they felt for the late Senator LaFollette.

A plan is being worked out by the house Republican powers whereby several members of the Wisconsin House delegation will be restored to places on key committees. They will not be asked to take any "oath of allegiance" and it will be assumed that they will be accepted as Republicans, chosen by Republican electors.

Five members of the Wisconsin House delegation are legislative officers of the Wisconsin House of Representatives. They are: Alvin C. Cooper, Racine, has served longer in the House of Representatives than any sitting member. Representative John Mandt Nelson of Madison has served sixteen years in Congress; Congressman Florian Lampert of Oshkosh has served ten years; Congressman James A. Frear has served fourteen years and Congressman Edward E. Brown of Waupun, has served fourteen years.

All of these will maintain their fealty to the policies of the late Senator LaFollette. All of them will be on terms of cordiality with the young Senator LaFollette, and most of them with the next Senator, Senator Blaine, but it could hardly be expected that they would surrender their judgment to the youthful senator without national legislative experience.

No end of talk has been caused by the letter which Congressman Frear wrote to Senator Norris, of Nebraska, asking for Senate aid in the restoration of the disciplined House members to their committees.

This action there had been carried exclusively in this correspondence, a report that Senator LaFollette and Senator-elect Blaine might use the leverage they have in the organization of the next Senate. LaFollette and Blaine by simply absenting themselves from roll call would prevent Republican organization in the senate.

Some observers took the view that Representative Frear did not desire to incur any obligation singly from the Wisconsin Senators, and therefore, wrote to Senator Norris, but there is no substantial foundation for that belief.

It is not betraying a secret to say that several members of the delegation did not endorse Mr. Frear's stand. The developments of the past two weeks have indicated clearly that there is no longer solidarity in the Wisconsin Congressional delegation.

$116,000 SOUGHT FOR IMPROVING AND MAINTAINING RIVER

Appropriation for 1928 May Be Larger Than Granted Last Year

Congress is asked to appropriate $116,000 for maintenance and improvement of the Fox river in Wisconsin for 1928 in the annual report of Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers of the army, submitted to congress on Monday. Last year congress was asked to appropriate $105,000 for improvement of the river. This included removal of rock below De Pere, completing construction of the Little Kaukauna dam and construction of two steel barges.

The work on the Fox River this year consists of the new work planned for the building of a retaining wall along the right canal bank at Kaukauna to cost $256,250. Gen. Jadwin again asked Congress to make appropriation for two additional 150-ton steel barges previously authorized but for which funds have never been made available. Increased coal shipments during the year added ten percent to Fox River tonnage. Gen. Jadwin said. Congress also is asked to appropriate $22,000 for maintenance of Green Bay harbor as compared with $35,300 last year when considerable deepening was undertaken.

Other appropriations requested for the Milwaukee district, which includes the Fox river, are:

Manistee harbor $10,000; Menominee harbor and river $7,000; Sturgeon Bay and Lake Michigan Ship Canal $12,000; Kewaunee harbor $3,500; Two Rivers harbor $3,000; Sheboygan harbor, Wis., $23,000; Port Washington harbor, Wis., $8,500; Milwaukee harbor, $572,000 (including building shore arm of south breakwater, 2,700 feet, $810,000); Kenosha harbor $5,000; St. Joseph, Mich., harbor, $52,000; South Haven, Mich., harbor $12,000; Holland harbor, Mich., $47,000; Grand Haven harbor, Mich., $18,000; Grand River, Mich., $5,000; Muskegon harbor, Mich., $20,000; Manistee harbor, Mich., $14,500; Frankfort harbor, Mich., $25,000; Charlevoix harbor, Mich., $5,400.

NEED BIG SUM
The nation's seacoast and inland harbors and the waterways and rivers will require $55,473,355 during the year beginning next July 1 to keep them in shape to transport the vast volume of traffic which last year amounted to $23,946,000,000 in commerce and passengers numbering 937,160,734, the report stated. Gen. Jadwin placed the amount necessary for general river and harbor work at $44,459,555. In addition $11,018,000 will be required for flood control work, surveys, and other specific purposes.

Since Congress began spending money on the country's rivers and harbors in 1824 a total of more than $1,500,000,000 has been devoted to that work, including about $45,000,000 for the Muscle Shoals hydroelectric project in Alabama which has been completed and for which only $300,000 is asked for the coming year for maintenance of the plant.

IMPROVE 200 HARBORS
Expenditures in the fiscal year of 1926 amounted to $93,463,786 and for the current fiscal year of 1927 Congress made a lump sum appropriation of $50,000,000, of which $43,500,150 has been allotted to various projects. More than 200 harbors are under improvement, 202 rivers, and 47 canals and waterways.

The lion's share of the money will go to the Mississippi River for which $17,670,000 is asked. New York harbor and vicinity waters require $6,405,000, the Ohio River $5,500,000, Philadelphia and the Delaware River $3,431,000, the Missouri River $2,550,000, the Hudson River in the vicinity of Albany and Troy $2,000,000, the Louisiana-Texas Intracoastal waterway between New Orleans and Galveston $2,000,000, the Sabine-Neches waterway $1,000,000, the Allegheny River $1,500,000 and the Sacramento River $1,000,000.

Harbors for which large appropriations are asked include:

Boston $15,000, Norfolk $640,000, Savannah $500,000, Miami $700,000, Mobile $437,500, Galveston and vicinity and the Houston ship channel $1,654,500, Milwaukee $572,000.

DEATH IS LIFE'S GREAT ADVENTURE, HOLMES TELLS ELKS

Puts Faith in Beneficent Power and Has No Fear, He Says in Memorial Address

I am looking forward to the 'Valley of the Shadows' as one of the greatest adventures of my life," Dr. J. A. Holmes, pastor of First Methodist church said in his address at the annual Elk Memorial service Sunday afternoon at the clubrooms. More than 100 Elks and their wives attended the services to honor the memories of those who died during the last year.

Dr. Holmes compared sleep to death and said that so far as his consciousness, activity and personality is concerned he died once every 24 hours. Yet he was not afraid of this sleep of death, as he compared the two. The human mind cannot grasp what takes place in that period when it becomes the play ground of mysterious and unknown forces which we as humans fail to understand, Dr. Holmes said. "Immortality," declared Dr. Holmes, "is exactly what the faith of the individual makes it. No matter what the creed or form of worship, faith is the thing that determines your life after death."

Dr. Holmes gave as an example of faith, the little French boy who was told he was to travel to America. He put his little hand into his father's and went fearlessly over oceans and continents with never a sign of uncertainty over the future. He trusted. "I don't fear the last sleep any more than I do my daily sleep," Dr. Holmes said, "because I am looking forward to the greatest adventure of my life. Sometimes I find myself standing on my toes awaiting that wonderful event. I trust I have no fear. I expect to place myself in the keeping of the same beneficent power that now guides my life and when I cross the valley and open my eyes I expect to find myself in a new and glorious world with which our present world cannot compare."

Six members of the Elks who died during the past year were eulogized at the service. They are Peter Greisch, W. W. Nottage, Claude Snyder, W. F. De Young, John Oaks and C. S. Dickinson. Officers of the lodge conducted the simple but impressive memorial services and paid tribute to the memory of the men who are departed. La Van Maesch played a piano solo. A mixed quartet from Lawrence college sang several numbers. Members of the quartet were Misses Eleanor McKibbin and Madge Helmer and Roger Benedict and James Archie.

The first load of Christmas trees from the northern wood arrived in Appleton last week. They are selling at from 50 cents to $1.25 each. This price is about the same as last year at the same time, dealers say. The first trees to arrive here are only of a fair quality and not many are being sold yet.
